Mukesh to pass on RIL baton to Anant, Dhanraj

SHAHID FARIDI @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi received a young visitor at his 7, Lok Kalyan Marg residence late evening in the middle of October. The meeting signalled a big change at the top level of India's largest private sector corporation — Reliance Industries Ltd (RIL).

The man who drove into the Prime Minister's residence in a black Mercedes was Anant Ambani, the younger son of India's second richest man Mukesh Ambani. Sources said RIL chairman Mukesh Ambani has handed over the job of handling matters relating to government, politics and legal affairs to Anant.

Dhanraj Nathwani

The young Ambani has been travelling to states to meet chief ministers. He is said to have developed a good rapport with several chief ministers, including prominent ones from the BJP-ruled states, with whom he is maintaining close contact.

His one-and-half-hour meeting with the prime minister was focused on the impending change of guard at Maker Chamber in Mumbai, RIL's headquarters, it is reliably learnt.

The 27-year-old Anant will handle the legacy business of oil, while his older siblings Akash and Isha will focus on the group's new ventures — digital, including telecom, and retail. Akash, along with sister Isha, will also look after marketing and brand building. Anant was inducted into the board of RIL's clean energy companies last year.

Sources said the Reliance group's key troubleshooter and Rajya Sabha member, Parimal Nathwani, will also hand over the baton to his son, Dhanraj Nathwani, who will henceforth handle corporate affairs in the national capital. Dhanraj has so far been handling RIL's affairs in Gujarat. He is now being given a new office in Delhi.

Dhanraj is married to the daughter of Ahmedabad-based businessman Rajesh Khandwala. Khandwala has had financial links with Jay Shah, son of Union home minister Amit Shah. Dhanraj was last week elected as the president of Gujarat Cricket Association, a post earlier held by Narendra Modi and Amit Shah. Dhanraj also played a key role in the construction of the Narendra Modi Cricket Stadium in Ahmedabad.

Voter data theft: Shivakumar to file complaint with EC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) president D K Shivakumar has raised many questions over the deletion of 27 lakh names from voters list. He said he will meet the Election Commission on Wednesday and lodge a formal complaint in this regard.

"Despite 'Form 7' from electoral rolls being mandatory for adding or removing voters' names, how can 27 lakh names be removed without any mandatory procedure being followed? Who is the officer who signed on them and authorised these applications?," asked Shivakumar.

The senior Congress leader said, "We have sought time from the Election Commission on Wednesday to file a formal complaint. There are a lot of legal aspects to the issue which need to be addressed. All the 28 field returning officers should be booked."

Mangaluru blast case to be handed over to NIA

BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

THE November 19 Mangaluru blast case will be handed over to the National Investigation Agency (NIA), informed sources told TNIE. "The NIA has been roped into the investigation from day one of the blast investigation. With the invocation of the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act, the case will be handed over to the NIA. The agency has the infrastructure, resources, data and capability to mine the cross country and international network data to investigate cases that threaten national security," they added.

"But before they hand over the case to NIA, the state police will try and get strong leads. The main accused Mohd Shariq is still in the ICU and not in a condition to give any statement to the police," added sources.

Meanwhile, intelligence agencies have warned of similar blasts like last weekend in Karnataka by "highly radicalised lone terrorists," said sources. "The new modus operandi to strike terror is to do it alone to hoodwink law enforcement agencies. The target could range from a right wing leader to common public. The extent of damage and casualty will be less but enough to strike terror in people's minds," sources said. P4

Shariq's condition stable

Mangaluru: Mangaluru City police commissioner N Shashi Kumar said prime accused H Mohammed Shariq's condition is stable and only after medical fitness certification is issued, they will go ahead with questioning him.

Good, bad, ugly? Give feedback at this police stn

Initiative launched to create friendly station

MOHAMMED YACOOB @BENGALURU

TO set right public perception of police stations, the Bandepalya police station has started an initiative where feedback from visitors and complainants are collected and put out on the website, www.darparna.net.

The initiative is to create "friendly police, a friendly atmosphere at the station, speedy redressal of issues and remove corruption", states the website.

Once a visitor comes to the station, he/she is handed over a form, which has columns for time of visit, purpose, officer who attended to them, decision taken and the visitor's view of the station with options like excellent, very good, good, average and poor.

Deepak Kanchi, a management consultant who helped build the platform, says, "Darpana is an initiative of Inspector LY Rajesh and his team at the Bandepalya police station to capture the feedback from complaints on www.darpana.net. Every complainant visiting the station is requested to provide the feedback on the overall experience of visiting the station."

Suryakanth Hatti, who is now a traffic assistant sub-inspector at Wilson Garden, earlier worked at the Bandepalya Law and Order Police Station as a writer when the concept was at its initial stages. Hatti was asked by the inspector to team up with Deepak from Design Code, a software company, to ensure that the feedback mechanism takes shape.

"Darpana has a tagline 'You Reflect Us and We Reflect You' to help build trust between the police and public. I am happy that I was part of that unique effort. Since its inception in March this year, the station has got feedback from over 270 people. There are plans to develop this concept further where visitors giving the feedback will also receive acknowledgement messages on their phones," he added.

The inspector and senior sub-inspector will review the response once every 15 days and the policeman who has got the best review will be rewarded during the monthly station parade.

After some public personalities mentioned it on Twitter, DG&IGP Praveen Sood appreciated the effort.

HC raps bank, tells it to unblock pension account of elder

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

COMING to the rescue of a 62-year-old widow from Vijayanagar, the Karnataka High Court directed Canara Bank to unblock her pension account and recover Rs 2,34,158, the excess amount deposited into the family pension account, from its erring officers. It also directed the bank to take action against its erring officials.

Allowing the petition filed by Nalini Devi, who has been fighting for her pension for the last six years, Justice M Nagaprasanna observed, "We are in a digital age. Excess payment is immediately reflected on the screens of computers through which the amounts are disbursed. It is only to be noticed by the person operating the computer or the person who decides on transferring the monthly pension. In such a case, neither the hardware nor the software would be responsible, but it is the 'heartware', which I mean is the person who handles the account and transfers the amount through the computer."

IN THE HC

The petitioner is the wife of one C Sudhakar who was the Second Division Assistant in the office of the Deputy Commissioner of Police, CAR (Central), Bengaluru, and served the department for about 22 years and died in 2004. After the death of her husband, the petitioner started getting a pension of Rs 2,430 from her account in the Syndicate Bank, BWSSB Branch at Gandhinagar, which is now merged into Canara Bank.

Her account was blocked in 2016, stating that there was an excess payment of Rs 50,000 to the family pension account. She immediately requested the bank to unblock the account and she offered to pay back the excess amount by way of installments. It was not accepted. Instead, she was made to run pillar to post to get her pension.

After the merger of the bank, she also submitted a representation to the Canara Bank and later to the Reserve Bank of India as well, but nothing came about.

The court observed that the officers harassed the petitioner, a senior citizen, who has been asking for the last six years that her pension be set right.

Court appreciates petitioner, but says no to mobile gardens

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Tuesday dealt with a public interest litigation filed by a city-based advocate, whose car roof has a garden, seeking directions to the state and Union governments to conduct a survey and formulate a scheme to have similar 'moving gardens' on vehicles, saying it may help in the maintenance of ecology and environment.

The petitioner is S K Suresh, a lawyer by profession. The court orally appreciated the cause of the petitioner, but declined to entertain the petition as a PIL, citing several reasons.

Providing news reports about a mobile garden perched atop a purple Tata Nano car owned by him, Suresh pleaded that he has converted his car's roof into a small garden as he doesn't want Bengaluru to become another New Delhi.

"Issuing such directions as sought by the petitioner is certainly an encroachment and impeachment of an individual's choice. Secondly, a person has the right not to use his vehicle for any purpose other than transportation. Asking a person to have a moving garden compulsorily on his vehicle is again an impeachment of a personal individual right. Modification of the vehicle may not be consonance with Motor Vehicle Acts or Rules," observed a division bench of Chief Justice Prasanna B Varale and Justice Ashok S Kinagi.

The petitioner submitted that there would be an increase in oxygen due to moving gardens and a such attempt would help in arresting the pollution.

No infringement of trademark, HC on Vogue institute

Quashing a city civil court order that restrained city-based Vogue Institute of Fashion Technology from using the trademarked 'Vogue' as part of their name and trade style, the Karnataka High Court observed that readers of Vogue will know that the fashion magazine is only involved in the business of publishing and not running the institute. Justice MI Arun passed the order while allowing the appeal filed by M M Kariappa and Vogue Institute of Management against the order dated September 25, 2014, passed by a city civil court restraining the institute from using the Vogue in its name. The court further said the magazine is published by the plaintiff -- Advance Magazine Publishers Inc, USA -- which is not subscribed to or read by a large section of the public. Consideration the degree of care that an average student is likely to exercise, it is highly unlikely that they will confuse the institute of the defendants as one belonging to the plaintiff. Further, no evidence is let in by the plaintiff to show otherwise, the court observed. There is no infringement of the trademark, the court added. ENS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

THE Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) on Tuesday demolished six sheds that had come up illegally on its property in J P Nagar and took possession of 22 guntas of land worth Rs 30 crore. The land is in Alahalli, located in the first block of JP Nagar's 9th Phase.

This marks the second major demolition undertaken by the authority in the the last four days.

BDA Task Force Superintendent of Police Nanjunde Gowda told TNIE, "A team of 30 personnel from the BDA along with ten from the local police offered protection to the BDA officials carrying out the demolition. Two earthmovers were used by the BDA. Some more work is pending and it will be completed by Wednesday and the property fenced too."

On November 19, BDA had recovered property worth Rs 20 crore by demolishing illegal structures at Kothanur village in JP Nagar 8th Block, said a release. The demolitions are set to continue.

With this, a total of 4,985 buildings in the Layout have been regularised.

Now, grow veggies, fruits, spices without soil, courtesy B'luru-Oz varsity

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @Bengaluru

IF all goes as per plan, you can soon grow vegetables, certain fruits, spices and even flowers without soil inside a poly house. The seedlings and plants can be made to hang in the air and required nutrients can be supplied using mist spraying technology.

The Indian Council for Agricultural Research (ICAR), Indian Institute of Horticultural Research (IIHR), Bengaluru, and the Indian Institute for Spices Research (IISR), Calicut, have decided to come together and promote indoor aeroponics for high value crops under different lighting and nutrient conditions. Aeroponics is a technology used for growing horticulture crops using air and no soil.

ICAR and IIHR will be signing a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with Western Sydney University, Australia in this regard on Friday.

According to Nandeesha P, a scientist from IIHR, certain fruits, vegetables (which are smaller in size), flowers and even spices can be grown with the help of aeroponics technology. Under this method, he plants are left in a hanging state and the roots of these plants are visible. "We can grow these in a protected area, which is called a poly house, he said. Explaining it further, he said the sensor-based mist spraying mechanism is used to spray required nutrients. He also said that this system will be useful for farmers in the coming days.

According to scientists who are working in the field of aeroponics, this technology offers many advantages. It requires less water and hence prevents wastage. Even the nutrients can be used without wasting them. Another big advantage is that plants grow faster and better when compared to normal growing period of plants.

Some of the popular plants that can be grown using aeroponics include strawberries, tomatoes, mint and basil. Since required nutrients can be controlled and fed to the roots, growth becomes faster and better.

Earlier, IIHR had developed soil-less cultivation mechanism where nutrients like phosphorous, potassium and nitrogen, which are essential for plant growth, are added to coco-peat. This can be used across a range of fields from terrace gardening to a few acres of farmland. The mechanism is also used where plants are cultivated in water and without soil. Required nutrients are supplied through water.

23RD November: A short while ago, I attended a seminar about prospects for future space travel. What we need to do is devise ways of travelling much faster than at present. One plan is for space ships to drop atom bombs out of the back, which then explode, carrying the vessel forward on the shock waves. Sounds a bit risky to me!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
It's always good to consider your options. Events towards the end of last week, or at the weekend, may have made you think twice about a particular relationship. Today, the main issue may be financial, perhaps concerning custody of joint possessions or resources.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
You could easily overstep the mark this week, perhaps encouraged now by the Moon's emotional alignments. You may, for example, be easily provoked, but you'd do well to listen to what partners are trying to say. You might realise that they were really on your side all the time.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
If you are still licking your wounds you are likely to completely miss fresh warning signals alerting you to new irritations. You may be out-classed and out-gunned, so a tactical withdrawal could be in your best interests. Until you are ready for a second chance, that is.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
You may be preoccupied with personal affairs. It would be very much wiser to face up to challenges at work, but it may not be possible to make a clean sweep. There does still seem to be a great deal more to take place before you can see the final outcome.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
It's time to make up your mind. Decisions that are finalised or agreed now, should encourage you to stop prevaricating over a domestic upheaval, perhaps to do with children, or a creative matter, but only if you recognise the value of authority and tradition.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
The Sun is related to that decisive planet Uranus, providing an interesting sub-plot for today's planetary sermon, encouraging you to change direction at home. A domestic gamble, for example, should pay off. First, though, ask people you live with what they really want.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
The spread of positive planets in your horoscope, suggests that the only important considerations at the moment are purely personal. Even at work you will have to be true to yourself - nobody will respect you if you pretend you can accomplish tasks which are not in your normal line.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You may be in the right, and more than entitled to challenge others' statements and opinions. However, time has moved on, and even though you might be quite correct, some people may be chronically incapable of realising the truth of what you say. That, though, is their problem!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
What comes to light in a roundabout manner should at last enable you to issue the odd ultimatum - or three! If people don't submit right away, you may give them another few days at least. And if they still don't agree then you might have to change your plans!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
You probably feel like taking a sabbatical from several important tasks, challenges or responsibilities. You may have to concede that there is no chance of getting to the root of a current predicament. Perhaps some mysteries are not meant to be solved!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Other people can be so maddening at times. If you are to ensure that team and group activities turn out in your favour, you will have to admit to rather more than you ever thought possible. Still, sometimes the more you give, the greater your rewards in the end.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You will do well to concentrate either on knowing your rights, or on pursuing an ethical course of action. A continuing emphasis on foreign places and distant parts stimulates your nomadic tendencies. You could even be dreaming of a journey to the far side of the earth.

Suicide prevention book sets target: Cut mortality by 10%

Cases on the rise across the country, especially post Covid-19; Mental health to be part of curriculum in schools, colleges

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

THE Ministry for Health and Family Welfare (MoHFW) recently released the first-ever National Suicide Prevention Strategy book, which aims to reduce suicide mortality by 10 per cent in the country by 2030.

The report stated that there is a need to establish effective surveillance mechanisms for suicides within three years, to establish psychiatry OPD that provide suicide prevention services in all districts within five years, and to integrate mental well-being curriculum in all educational institutions within the next eight years.

Experts and medical professionals state that while other countries regularly have such reports, it is the first time it has been recorded in India. This is because the number of cases is on the rise, more so since Covid-19.

A senior MoHFW official said that cases of suicide are higher among men, as compared to women, in 2020, but now cases among women and children are also on the rise. There is, thus, a need to have special spaces in offices, educational institutions, residential associations and other areas where people can reach out easily and talk to seek help. There should be regular sessions with dialogues and conversations in educational institutions and work spaces to understand what a person is going through. Experts should be roped in to assess feedback and observe people to spot early signs and give immediate help.

Dr Pratima Murthy, director and senior professor of psychiatry, National Institute of Mental Health and Neuro Sciences (Nimhans), said while psychosocial factors have led to a rise in cases, there has also been an increase after Covid-19. Thus, there is a need for a multi-sectoral approach to address the issue. There is a need for all sorts of engagement to reduce cases, and also reduce easy availability and public access to organophosphorous compounds like acid and pesticide.

Admitting that most youth today are suffering from anxiety, depression and other issues, Dr Murthy said that responsible medical prescription and treatment plays a crucial role.

The report includes World Health Organisation's approach in suicide prevention, known as 'LIVE LIFE' — Leadership, Interventions, Vision and Evaluation (LIVE) and Less means for suicide, Interaction with media, Form the young, Early identification (LIFE) as a cross-cutting strategy.

Political party worker ends life, blames 4

ENS @ Bengaluru

A 32-year-old worker of a political party ended his life by jumping into a lake in Doddaballapura on Monday evening.

The deceased, Vinod Kumar, a resident of Kacheripalya, left behind a suicide note naming four persons, including a woman, for trying to stymie his growth in politics. Kumar was active in politics for several years and is said to have a huge following as he was active in social service. The police said based on a complaint by Kumar's family, a case of abatement to suicide has been registered against councillor Manjunath; Narayanappa, Dharmesh, and the wife of a contractor. Probe revealed that Kumar used to work with the Congress and had recently moved to the BJP. Following this, Manjunath started harassing him, asking him not to stay with the BJP, police said.

The body was fished out on Tuesday morning. Kumar's family protested demanding the immediate arrest of those responsible for his death.

KARNATAKA CONSIDERS MANGALURU BLAST A NATIONAL SECURITY ISSUE: CM

Details emerge on Shariq's operations; Araga to visit blast site today; TN police looking at Coimbatore blast link

Police personnel keep vigil at KSRTC bus stand in Bengaluru on Tuesday in the aftermath of Saturday's Mangaluru blast | NAGARAJ GADEKAL

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Hiriyur (Chitradurga dist), Coimbatore (Tamil Nadu)

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Tuesday said the state government is looking at Mangaluru blast as a national security issue and the case is being investigated from all angles.

After performing the Ganga puja to the brimming Vanivilas Sagar Dam, he said the state police successfully found out details of the person involved in the incident, his connections, original name, terror outfit involved and other key details within 24 hours of the incident.

He said the state has been a target of terrorist organisations, and the police have successfully busted 18 sleeper cells and sent their members behind bars. Some of those operating from outside the state too have been caught, he added.

Home Minister Araga Jnanendra will arrive in Mangaluru on Wednesday and hold a meeting with top police officers, including DGP Praveen Sood and ADGP Alok Kumar. He will visit the spot where the blast took place and meet the injured autorickshaw driver at the hospital.

Jnanendra told reporters at Thirthahalli on Tuesday that the police have intensified the investigation. "The state and central agencies will investigate the case thoroughly and take measures to nab anti-social elements," he said.

Jnanendra said the main suspect, Mohammed Shariq, is yet to be interrogated as he is being treated at a hospital in Mangaluru.

Did Shariq also visit Coimbatore Yoga centre?

Special teams from Coimbatore Rural Police and Mangaluru visited the Isha yoga centre on Tuesday after it came to light that Mohammed Shariq had used a photo of Adiyogi Shiva statue as his WhatsApp display picture.

According to police sources, the teams held inquiries with Isha management to ascertain if Shariq, who had stayed in a dormitory at Gandhipuram in Coimbatore for a few days in September, visited the place. Also, they are checking CCTV camera footage from the centre and also from several places in and around the place.

During investigation, Mangaluru police found out that the suspect had used a photograph of Isha Adiyogi statue as WhatsApp status for few days before the autorickshaw blast last Saturday.

"We received information about his WhatsApp status, and we are investigating it. We cannot give further details," said a senior officer from the Coimbatore district police.

A team from Coimbatore City Police is in Mangaluru to follow the investigation as a similar blast took place in a car in the city on October 23.

Shariq had Lord Shiva as his WhatsApp DP

KARTHIK KK @ Mysuru

EVEN as the Karnataka police and the National Investigation Agency (NIA) are leaving no stone unturned to gather all possible information and leads in connection with Mohammed Shariq, 24, the prime suspect in the Mangaluru blast, it has now been established that he not only faked his identity to rent a room in Mysuru but had used the photo of Lord Shiva as his WhatsApp display picture to cover his identity.

Prasad, the owner of SMM Institute of Servicing located on D Banumaiah Road in Mysuru, where Shariq had enrolled for a 45-day mobile repair and computer hardware course, said, "Shariq had enrolled with us by providing an Aadhaar card which mentioned his name as Premraj."

He said, "We updated the students on class details and other things related to the course through WhatsApp. That's when we noticed that he had used a photo of Lord Shiva as his display picture. He was very irregular to the course and attended just about 20 classes till date." Prasad also revealed that Shariq had introduced himself as a native of Hubballi and had come to Mysuru for a call centre job which he said would start in the next 15-20 days and till then he wished to learn mobile phone repairing. "I once questioned him upon noticing a photo of a Kerala registered bike as his mobile screensaver. He said the bike belonged to his friend from Kerala," said Prasad.

Meanwhile, Prasad said that as part of the training he had given Shariq the task of getting 10 mobile phones from the usual supplier to the institute and expressed shock that he never expected Shariq would be involved in an 'act of terror'.

The evidence collected from Shariq's room at Lokanayakanagar in Mysuru was wrapped in sealed covers and sent to Mangaluru. Sources revealed that the evidence included multimeter wires, small bolts, circuit boards, batteries, sulphur, phosphorus, wooden powder and other objects.

Police monitor prime suspect

Investigation into the auto blast case is continuing, and the health of prime accused Mohammad Shariq is being monitored closely by the Karnataka State Police. Mangaluru City police commissioner N Shashi Kumar, who visited the private hospital and inquired about Shariq's treatment, said his condition is stable and only after medical fitness certification is issued, will they go ahead with questioning. The ward where the victim Purushotham and accused Shariq are undergoing treatment, is under tight police security. The Commissioner said a video going viral of two persons inside a wine shop and moving around is in no way connected to the blast. "A person wearing a hat in the video is not Shariq. Rumours that the accused has gone to a mosque are not true. Public should not pay heed to such rumours... We have continued searching sensitive areas with a dog squad. We are also raising public awareness in malls, hospitals, buses, hospitals, railway stations and other crowded areas," he said. On speculation that Shariq is a suicide bomber, as hinted at by Home Minister Araga Jnanendra, ADGP Law and Order Alok Kumar told TNIE that investigation is still at a premature stage and all details will be confirmed only after Shariq is questioned.

Auto driver recovering, DC recommends compensation

DIVYA CUTINHO
@ Mangaluru

PURUSHOTHAM Poojary, the autorickshaw driver who sustained injuries in the recent Mangaluru blast, is recovering, said sources.

Poojary sustained around 20% burns in the low-intensity blast that occurred in his autorickshaw at Naguri in Mangaluru on Saturday.

Hailing from a humble background, the autorickshaw was his only source of income. He was working really hard as his daughter's wedding has been fixed for May 2023.

Poojary had undergone a bypass surgery for his heart ailment, said his family. "He has been driving an auto for the last 15 years. The family is in a state of shock. His wife and two young daughters are spending the entire day at the hospital. It is a difficult phase for the family," said a relative of Poojary.

Even if he recovers soon, he will not be able to get back to driving autorickshaw as it will be a part of the probe.

"Mangaluru South MLA Vedavyas Kamath has assured that he will provide an autorickshaw and also bear Poojary's medical expenses," said Sandeep Garody, a local corporator.

Meanwhile, Dakshina Kannada Deputy Commissioner Ravi Kumar MR assured all possible support to Poojary's family. He said that he would recommend to the government to release compensation to Poojary. Earlier, ADGP (Law & Order) Alok Kumar had also assured relief to Poojary as there is a provision in terror cases to provide compensation to victims.

Meanwhile, doctors at the private hospital where Poojary is undergoing treatment informed his family that he is recovering well from the burn injuries. "His face is swollen. He has burns on his one hand and back. However, he is able to speak. He is unable to come to terms with the incident and that such a blast went off in his auto," Mangaluru City Police Commissioner N Shashi Kumar said.

Meanwhile, devotees of Koragajja daiva (spirit) at Garody, close to where the blast occurred claim that a major disaster was averted due to the blessings of the daiva.

VOTER DATA THEFT SCAM

Probe intensifies, accused Lokesh held

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Halasuru Gate police, probing the voter data theft scam, arrested Lokesh KM, who has been named in the FIRs registered at Halasuru Gate and Kadugodi police stations in connection with the case. The police, who earlier arrested several persons including Ravikumar, the founder of Chilume NGO, on Sunday, said they nabbed Lokesh from Kolar on Tuesday. "His role was to collect voter ID cards. He is being questioned about his role in the case," they said. Till now, six have been arrested.

The police are also investigating Lokesh's association with the NGO and Ravikumar. "We are quizzing Lokesh about how many years he has been associated with the NGO and how he became part of it," the police said, adding that he will be produced before the court on Wednesday and his police custody will be requested.

BBMP officials had filed two cases against Lokesh accusing him of creating fake ID cards as a booth level officer and visiting houses without BBMP officials and collecting information about the voters, despite the BBMP cancelling the agreement with Chilume on November 2.

Meanwhile, the police have continued questioning Ravikumar, while a parallel technical probe is underway about the software and applications used by the NGO in the process of linking Aadhaar with voter ID cards and the alleged misuse and sharing of the data.

Suspended BBMP officials to be grilled

Three BBMP revenue officials, who were suspended in connection with the case and are suspected to be hand in glove with the accused, are likely to be grilled by the police, sources said.

The officials, who are also facing a departmental probe, are expected to be summoned by the police for questioning shortly. BBMP Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath issued orders on Saturday, suspending Bheemashankar from the Chickpet constituency, Sohail S from the Shivajinagar segment and Chandrashekar from the Mahadevapura constituency, following a report submitted by the Assistant District Election Officer on the alleged irregularity. "A departmental investigation is on regarding issuing of ID cards to the NGO. If the involvement of other staff is found, the same action (suspension) will be initiated," said Girinath.

Meanwhile, it is said that the Bengaluru DC has also ordered an inquiry against an officer, who served as a tahsildar in 2017, as he allegedly permitted Chilume to work as BLOs.

Shivamogga police red-flagged Shariq in Sept

"Earlier, the proscribed Indian Mujahideen (IM) was formed in 2007 by Iqbal and Riyaz Shahbandari alias Bhatkal from Karnataka as a home-grown terrorist organisation with funding and support from across the country after the Students Islamic Movement of India (SIMI) was banned on September 26, 2001 following the 9/11 attack in the US. Now, with improved technology, counter terror apparatus, cooperation among countries to share real time intelligence on terror operatives and crackdown on funding, the youth are being radicalised online. They are anonymous and don't need much funding for their terrorist activities. It is a dangerous trend and the Ministry of Home Affairs is seized of the matter," said sources.

In Shariq's case, he is being handled by Arafath Ali, Abdul Matheen Taha and Musabir Hussain. Ali is said to be in Dubai, Taha and Hussain are being investigated by the NIA for creating an ISIS-affiliated terror group in Bengaluru. Shariq was arrested in December 2020 terror graffiti case in Mangaluru along with his associate and engineering graduate Maaz Muneer Ahmed and later enlarged on bail. The Shivamogga police had red-flagged Shariq in September after the arrest of two other engineering graduates - Maaz Muneer Ahmed (22) of Mangaluru and Syed Yasin (21) of Shivamogga for alleged affiliation to the banned terrorist outfit Islamic State of Iraq & Syria (ISIS) for carrying a blast and burning the national flag near the Tunga river. "Shariq is the main accused in all the three cases but his associates do not know the others, who are involved in his other cases," said sources.

Three "highly radicalised" youths, including Shariq have been arrested in the state since July this year. First was Akhtar Hussain (25) from Assam, who was arrested in Bengaluru by the the Central Crime Branch (CCB) on a tip off from the Intelligence Bureau (IB).

Second was Zabiullah, who was arrested in Shivamogga during the Independence Day clashes. Zabiullah has reportedly been "indoctrinated by the Pakistan-based banned terrorist organisation Jaish-e-Mohammed (JeM) to engineer violence in the state," informed sources had earlier revealed.

Community leaders, parties offer help

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

WITH the news of voter ID scam breaking out, many groups and political parties have swung into action to ensure that the changes, deletions and distortions do not affect voters.

Maulana Imran Maqsood Rashadi, chief priest of Jamia Masjid at City Market, said, "Everyone has a right to exercise their franchise. We will hold a meeting with community leaders to ensure that the names deleted or distorted are restored."

Maulana Tanvir Peer Hashmi, who is also a member of the All-India Muslim Personal Law Board, took to social media to alert people. "We have received information that many names have been deleted. Voting is our constitutional right. Corrective action needs to be taken by the people. Individuals and NGOs have to check if their names are on the voter rolls or if they have been deleted," he said.

Archbishop Peter Machado and Fr Faustin Lobo, PRO of Karnataka Church, said, "We have noticed many anomalies, and wherever there are deletions or distortions we are working towards restoring them."

Many asked individuals and families to check whether their names are on the list and the details are in order. Merely possessing a voter ID card is not enough and people have to make sure that their names are on the electoral rolls before December 4, the last date for corrections, they said.

Congress Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah said, "Most of the deletions are of people from Minority, Backward and Dalit groups. We will do everything to make sure that the names are restored."

Eshwarananda Puri Swamiji, a seer of Kuruba community, said, "Election authorities should set right the anomalies. I will speak to the leaders of the community to take action." Immadi Siddarameshwara, who heads the Bhovi Gurupeetha of Scheduled Castes, said, "We will hold an awareness exercise to ensure nobody's name is wrongfully deleted."

KPCC working president MLC Saleem Ahmed said, "This is a clear conspiracy. We have already instructed cadres to help voters restore their names."

Stars matter: JDS waits for auspicious time to release its list of candidates

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

JDS, aiming to come back to power in the state on its own strength after the 2023 Assembly polls, is depending heavily on auspicious days and dates to come out with the list of its candidates for the polls.

The party was scheduled to release the first list of 100-plus candidates on November 18 when the Pancharathna Yatra was kicked off. But it was put off after party leader HD Revanna, who is known to have a firm belief in astrology, warned against it. The yatra, touted as the party's comeback rally, was also kicked off from Mulbagal region, considered auspicious as it is located at Deva Moole or the god corner, as per Vastu beliefs. The party wanted to announce the list at the Chamundi Hills temple in Mysuru, but decided against it as the party's MLA from Chamundeshwari in Mysuru, GT Devegowda, has fallen out with the leadership.

Asked when it would be released, Kumaraswamy said, "The list is ready and we were about to make it public when Revanna suggested that we delay it for sometime. Some leaders want to wait till November 25, while others say it should not be done before my birthday on December 16, when we have also planned a Kalyanotsava."

But some of the names are already out. Asked about it, he said, "The names for Kolar district have been announced, and if you add KGF, it will become six. Tomorrow we enter Chikkaballapur and candidates for the five seats are ready. We have also identified the names for Tumakuru, except Sira. For Mandya district, eight partymen have been identified."

Whenever the party leadership decides to announce the list, it will be at an auspicious time and on an auspicious day, a party source said. Some party workers expect Deve Gowda to visit the Nanjundeshwara temple at Nanjangud and get the blessings before announcing it.

Fall in line, high command tells Shashi Tharoor

Opposition Leader Satheesan terms Congress MP "media-inflated balloon"

PREETHA NAIR/CYNTHIA CHANDRAN @ New Delhi/T'Puram

AS the face-off between Shashi Tharoor and V D Satheesan came into the open on Tuesday, the Congress high command has made it clear that it stands with the state leadership of the party. It also warned the Thiruvananthapuram MP that it will intervene if the party leadership in Kerala files a complaint against him for flouting the party line.

"Nobody is above the party. Not only Tharoor, all party leaders must follow the norms set by the Pradesh Congress Committee. KPCC chief and the Leader of Opposition have already issued statements and I support them," Congress national general secretary in-charge of Kerala Tariq Anwar told TNIE.

Anwar said the high command has not received any complaint from the state leadership on Tharoor building a "parallel set-up" in the party. Asked whether a Tharoor faction is emerging in the party, the AICC general secretary said he doesn't want to get involved in the issue. "I can only say that the PCC has the authority and they will take appropriate decisions...If the PCC files any complaint against Tharoor, then we (the central leadership) will intervene," he said.

"I spoke to Satheesan and he assured me that everyone is on the same page with the leadership," said Anwar.

Meanwhile, Satheesan shed silence on the issue and accused Tharoor, albeit without mentioning his name, of attempting to weaken the Congress in the state by pursuing divisive and parallel politics. In an apprent reference to media-savvy Tharoor, he told reporters in Thiruvananthapuram, "media-inflated balloons will burst with a prick. But we will not as we are not balloons inflated by media."

Tharoor, on the third day of his Malabar tour, visited the Kodappanakkal House at Malappuram and met the top leaders of the key UDF partner IUML, including state president Panakkad Sadik Ali Shihab Thangal and national general secretary P K Kunhalikutty. Asked by reporters after the meeting whether he was forming a Tharoor group within the state Congress, he said "I have no intention to create a new group. We work for a united Congress." Kozhikode MP M K Raghavan was also with him during the visit.

However, political observers feel the visit was a clever move by Tharoor to garner the support of the IUML which will prove vital in his future course of action. The League would prefer Tharoor to other Congress leaders in the state to lead the UDF in the next assembly elections, they say.

6 decades since train tragedy, residents ask for plaque

P THIRUSELVAM @ Ariyalur

IT'S a tragedy that remains etched in people's memory for more than one reason. On this day (November 23) 66 years ago, a train with 800 passengers plunged into Marudaiyaru River just two miles from Ariyalur railway station, killing 144 people and injuring hundreds more. Several passengers went missing. As is his wont, Lal Bahadur Shastri, the then railway minister in PM Jawaharlal Nehru's cabinet, resigned taking moral responsibility.

Local social activists now want a plaque to be installed at the station in memory of those who perished on that fateful night in 1956.

Speaking to TNIE, an 86-year-old P Rajangam of Ramalingapuram in Perambalur said, "I was 20 when the accident happened. My house was just 800 metres from the spot. I was in deep sleep when the sudden rattling noise of crashing steel jolted me out of my slumber. Someone told me a train had fallen into the river and I rushed there. The river was in full flow. But since it was dark, several passengers mistook it for sand and jumped into the river. Hundreds had a watery grave. Scores went missing and their bodies could not be traced. Just half an hour before the Thoothukudi Express crash, another train had crossed the bridge. There was continuous heavy rain for more than four hours on the fateful night before the accident. Something should have been done in memory of those lives," he said.

An archive photo of the train that plunged into the Marudaiyaru river | EXPRESS

According to reports, the train, which had left Chennai Egmore at 9.30 pm the previous night, plunged into the river around 4.30 am. The river was in spate due to the heavy downpour all through the night and the pillars of the old bridge between Ariyalur and Kallagam railway stations were damaged by the gushing water.

The train had departed from Egmore with 800 passengers in 13 coaches. One coach was detached from the train at Virudhachalam station for being taken to Salem. Water in the Marudaiyaru River was almost touching the tracks of the bridge. The train's steam engine and seven coaches fell into the river after the bridge crashed around 4.30 am. About 200 passengers had gone missing.

G Karthik Kumar of Ariyalur said, "I'm reminded of the accident every November. Every year, around this time, people start talking about the tragedy. Some people also visit the spot. The railway department or the district administration should come forward to install a tablet to mark the tragedy."

When contacted, both Ariyalur Collector P Ramana Saraswathi and Perambalur Collector P Sri Venkada Priya said they would check and take action on the request."

RTI activists harass, extort bureaucrats

BANSY KALAPPA @Bengaluru

EXTORTION and blackmail is reportedly going on under the guise of RTI activism, and is a cause for concern among the powerful bureaucracy. Their concern that whenever the government makes a large allocation or grant for any big project, unscrupulous activists file innumerable RTI queries and study the project to find lapses or loopholes. They then make life miserable for officials by placing a demand for money, or threatening to expose them if they fail to comply. The target departments are PWD, BBMP, RDPR, BDA, Water Resources, Minor Irrigation, Housing Board, Social Welfare and so on, which receive large sums of money from the government for welfare schemes. A senior retired bureaucrat told TNIE that many of these people pose as journalists, and are a menace. He said once they collect details through RTI, they post it on WhatsApp and seek to extract money and blackmail officials. When it was recently raised in the legislature, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai told legislator Venkatrao Nadagouda in response to a question that where necessary, police cases may be filed by the aggrieved and action would be taken against the errant persons. Bommai was responding to a question on harassment of officials and contractors by RTI activists.

A bureaucrat said scores of victims have narrated tales of RTI activists calling them and demanding settlements which can run into large sums of money. One businessman's family informed TNIE that they was livid after an RTI activist demanded a car to "settle" a particular issue, after he obtained some information through RTI and realised there was an official flaw.

"Some of them are like criminals, and if anyone tries to settle an issue by paying money, others pile on like leeches and make life miserable," a retired bureaucrat said. An official source said that while the Supreme Court has said a person can file a certain number of RTI applications, some file hundreds of applications, often under benami names but the address is common.

Sources said about 300 cases have been filed in the Lokayukta in the past two years. It is no secret that cases drag on for 5-6 years. Lokayukta records reveal that hundreds of cases have been filed ever since RTI as a tool became available to activists.

Train runs over male leopard near Kyatsandra

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

A MALE leopard, aged under two years, came in the way of a speeding train in Bengaluru Railway Division and died early on Tuesday after suffering grievous injuries. The incident occurred between Hirehalli and Kyatsandra railway stations in Tumukuru district. The train hit the animal's hind legs and part of its back, causing intense bleeding.

The gateman attached to Kyatsandra railway station, H Harish, spotted the feline lying just next to the railway tracks after 3am Tuesday and alerted the RPF personnel here. "I found it in the morning while patrolling the tracks. This is the first time such an incident involving a leopard has occurred here," he said.

RPF sub-inspector Sudhakar Naidu rushed to the spot on receiving the news and alerted local forest officials. Deputy Range Forest Officer Girish said an FIR will be booked under the Wildlife Protection Act 1972. "We got a communication from Railway staff. It is a leopard which is over a year old. It is the first such accident I've seen here," he said.

Forest Guard at Tumukuru, M R Shwetha, said, "It has been sent for postmortem and the report is expected to arrive tomorrow. The incident must have happened very late or early in the morning. I went to the spot to assess the nature of death. The leopard must have trespassed on the tracks and the light from the train must have blinded it momentarily," she said.

BOMMAI TO MAHA CM: DON'T CREATE DISPUTES

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai hit out at his Maharashtra counterpart Eknath Shinde accusing him of creating disputes between the two neighbouring states. Speaking to reporters in Bengaluru on Tuesday, Bommai said the Border Development Authority has decided to release special grants for the development of Kannada schools in Maharashtra. This apart, details of those who fought during the Ekikarana (unification) movement, freedom struggle and Goa Vimochana agitation and settled in Maharashtra, are sought. Karnataka government will also sanction them the monthly pension. The CM said it is his duty to protect the interests of Kannadigas who reside also outside Karnataka.

"There is harmony between the two states and we treat people who speak different languages, equally. It is our duty to protect the interests of the Kannadigas who are settled in large numbers in Maharashtra," he added.

The CM further said the government is considering inclusion of Jath taluk of Maharashtra into Karnataka. "All Gram Panchayats in Jath taluk have passed a unanimous resolution seeking their merger with Karnataka. The state government is seriously considering it", he said.

LATE NIGHT SHOCK

Mechanic kills man, brings body to police stn

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE Ramamurthy Nagar police were shocked to see a man coming to the police station with the body of a 48-year-old man whom he had murdered. The accused, a mechanic, brought the body in his car around 1 am on Tuesday.

The murder took place after the two had an altercation over non-payment of loans, during which the accused Rajashekar (31) killed his friend Maheshappa by hitting him with an iron rod.

Maheshappa is alleged to have taken money from Rajashekar and his mother by telling them that he would get them huge loans from co-operative societies and other banks. Instead of keeping his word, the victim allegedly escaped and was hiding at his hometown near Nanjangud.

Maheshappa was killed on the way to the city from Himanagundi. The victim is said to have conned many people by assuring them of getting bank loans at cheaper interest rates. Maheshappa is said to have gone into hiding after cheating many people. "The accused has claimed that the victim had to give him around Rs 1.5 crore. The car in which the body was brought to the police station has been seized," said an officer.

Lawyer gives 'supari' to murder his father, stepmother; gets stabbed instead

AMIT S UPADHYE @Koppal

In a weird turn of events, a lawyer who had given 'supari' to a gang to eliminate his father and stepmother, was stabbed by the attackers. The incident was reported in Gangavati last week and the police have booked a case after the 'victim' recovered from his stab injuries.

The police said that 39-year-old Yogesh Desai, a lawyer from Koppal district, had promised to pay ₹3 lakh to two 'supari killers' from Bengaluru and he arranged for them to travel to Koppal where his father lives.

Yogesh had hatched a plan to kill his father and his current wife, along with his brother-in-law. The accused stays with his sister and brother-in-law in Yeshwanthpur, Bengaluru. Desai allegedly gave contract of killing his father to Mohammad Fayaz and Sohan.

On November 18, Yogesh took the assailants in his car to show them his father's house and also the house of his stepmother. Meanwhile, the assailants started arguing with Yogesh in the car as they found out that he had paid them less than what he had promised. Sohan was driving the car and Yogesh was sitting in the front seat. Fayaz, who was sitting in the back seat, allegedly stabbed Yogesh and pushed him out of the car.

"We received a message about a man being pushed out of a car, and he was bleeding. The incident was reported in Jayanagar area of Gangavati. When we visited the spot, the man was in a bad shape and we took him to hospital," said a police officer.

Upon questioning Yogesh in hospital, he reportedly narrated a fake story. However, the police started digging deeper. "When we were questioning Yogesh, he received a call from one of the attackers. They threatened him for giving them just half the money and demanded the other half. After the call was over, Yogesh confessed," police said.

Police personnel have been deployed in the village to prevent any law and order problem.

When phone rings in horror & woman's WhatsApp messages turn true

RAHUL R @ Kollam

AT times reality can be stranger than fiction. Nobody knows it better than Sajitha of Kottarakkara. How else can one term electric fans switching on on their own and TV sets exploding, after she gets advance WhatsApp messages that predict such scary happenings? The 32-year-old, who lives with her parents and child, is now living in constant fear as each and every activity in her house is being externally controlled.

Sajitha told TNIE that she has been getting scary messages on WhatsApp - on anything and everything happening in her house - from her mother's phone for the last six months. She believes her mother Vilasini's phone, as well as her own, have been hacked. Sajitha said despite contacting the cyber police, no case was filed. On Tuesday, the police installed some security features on her phone, after which she hasn't received any message. However, she said she's still afraid.

"We have been living in constant fear. Our phones have been hacked. Electric equipment in the house are being externally controlled. I have been getting intimidating and scary WhatsApp messages from my mother's phone. One such message said that my television would soon explode. And that is exactly what happened. I have been constantly subjected to such disturbing experiences for the past six months," she said.

According to Sajitha, the strange events began almost six months ago when she bought a new phone. Soon after the phone started behaving in an unusual manner. It would switch off and on automatically. Details on the phone would change automatically. Later, she changed the phone, but the situation remained the same. "My call list changes automatically. Abusive messages were sent from my phone to relatives and close friends. Initially, I thought my phone had some issues. Later I changed it, but the issues continued," she said.

Meanwhile, she approached the police and the cybercrime unit. However, no proper action was taken. The flow of abusive and intimidating messages continued unabated. The family got frightened when electronic equipment in the house started getting controlled from outside. "Later, I decide to use my mother's phone. I put my SIM card on her phone. After that, I started getting strange WhatsApp messages from my mother's phone. For instance, I would receive a message that my fan is going to stop, my TV will explode, and the electrical meter will explode. After I received the message, these things happened exactly like that. My father, Rajan, is an electrical worker. He examined our home appliances, but there was nothing wrong with the wiring. Later, we changed the entire wiring. But nothing changed," Sajitha said.

On November 8, she approached the police cyber wing at Kottarakkara. However the officials refused to register a case based on her complaint. Later, she approached the Kollam Rural SP and MP Kudikunnil Suresh. On Tuesday, the cyber police inspected the entire house. However, they could not find anything suspicious. "I believe there's something wrong when I am inside the house. I do not get these messages when I am outside," she added.

Meanwhile, investigating officer Elias P George said the phones of Sajitha and her mother were checked. But they found nothing suspicious. "We examined their phones. Normally in such a situation, you would find some hidden hacking applications. But no such application was found," the inspector said.

The police said they installed some new safety features in the phone. After which she has not received any of these messages. "We've received a complaint. As of now, there's no evidence," they said.

'LOSS AND DAMAGE' FUND AT CLIMATE SUMMIT HOLDS OUT REAL HOPE

The big takeaway from the international climate talks at Sharm el-Sheikh, Egypt—COP27—was the agreement to set up a 'loss and damage' fund to help rebuild communities devastated by floods and climate change. This demand, which emerged last year at the climate summit in Glasgow, has been driven by poor nations, especially those with island and coastal communities threatened by floods and submergence. Barbados PM Mia Mottley and others have underlined that the rampant industrialisation of the rich, developed world has contributed the most to global warming; therefore, these nations must now pay for repairing the damage. This is a big step forward as the US and the European Union have long resisted any compensation that will be seen as 'reparation' for their unchecked development.

The final text does not seem to provide details on how the fund will be raised and disbursed. But it is a foot in the door. The principle of the polluter paying for climate damage has been initialled, and without doubt, the next round in Doha will give concrete character to the fund. On the other hand, the big disappointment for the developed nations was the failure to reach specific commitments to phasing out fossil fuels. While the general understanding remains that fossil fuels—oil, gas and coal—are primarily responsible for greenhouse emissions and global warming, resistance from China and Saudi Arabia, among others, blocked any time-bound commitments. The energy crisis caused by the Ukraine war has also changed the agenda.

Environment scientists have emphasised that global warming must peak by 2025 if we are to restrict the rise in temperatures to 1.5°C. The delay in phasing out fossil fuels will impact this adversely. Notwithstanding the setback, overall, it was a victory for Nature and for thousands of Pakistani farmers who lost everything to the recent floods, the 'loss and damage' fund holds out hopes for real compensation. So far, it has been crumbs: the European Union, for instance, pledged $126 million to a country that saw $40 billion worth of devastation. On the sidelines, there was an agreement to pay Indonesia $20 billion to help it transition from coal. Simultaneously, Brazil's President-elect Luiz Lula da Silva promised at COP27 that he would end deforestation and restore the Amazon. These are real victories which lay the foundation for arresting climate change.

CRUSH UNTOUCHABILITY BY CHANGING MINDSET

The recent incident in Heggotara village in Chamarajanagar district of Karnataka, wherein 'upper caste' community members drained an entire tank because a thirsty Dalit woman drank from it, is extremely disturbing. This case of untouchability is the latest among several across India in which 'lower caste' people are humiliated on an inhuman scale. The humiliation not just crushes the security and confidence of those targeted but also sends India's much-prized 'Unity in Diversity' tag into a nosedive.

These cases must remind us of India's dichotomy: One, an outward, progressive stance competing with global players for the country to emerge as a world destination; the other, an inward, regressive one that nurtures deep chasms in our fractured society. They must remind us of our failure to achieve desired levels of egalitarianism espoused in our Constitution. They must remind us of how we, as a people, have failed our early visionaries who dreamed of an India brimming with progressive ideas. More significantly, they must remind us that although our literacy level had risen from 12% when India became independent in 1947 to 77.7% in 2022, education seems to have failed us in eradicating the evil of untouchability. Untouchability may well have exited completely had education against such a practice truly begun at home. But, practised over centuries and passed down from generation to generation, there is no scope for that to happen. According to one estimate based on the India Human Development Survey, 27% of households in the country were still found practising untouchability, against which the Untouchability Offences Act (1955) lays down penalties.

We cannot wish castes away as they are the staple for the political processes in India. But the process of removing untouchability from people's minds can be hastened. For that, it is time for governments, district authorities and taluk panchayats to organise more wide-scaled sporting events to bring people together to help diminish divisive lines. Sports can do wonders. It is time to ensure that schools across India step in actively to discourage this practice through mind-opening lessons in the early years of schooling—with a focus on children in the rural outback where it persists with a higher intensity. It is time to deliver a crushing blow to untouchability and throw the gates wide open for a truly egalitarian society.

QUICK TAKE

HAVE CASH BUT GOING DIGITAL

Unified Payments Interface (UPI) is here to stay. Till October, the system recorded seven trillion transactions worth ₹12 trillion. Several countries are adopting it, and France accepts these payments. The good news must give way to a reality check. The economy can indeed go cashless. It's easier to impose taxes and track fake accounts. But one must realise that most transactions involve small cash of ₹100 or less. And the total currency in the system hasn't reduced, probably implying black money still moves. A digital economy importantly means government assurances against fiscal surveillance, privacy breach, and data misuse.

Uttar Pradesh's Muslims have even stopped looking at the non-BJP parties for an increased share of tickets in an election, much less secure their backing to get elected

MUSLIM POLITICIANS IN DISARRAY AFTER UP ELECTIONS

RADHIKA RAMASESHAN
Columnist and political commentator

SOUMYADIP SINHA

Nine months since the Uttar Pradesh assembly election, the ruling BJP is ensconced in a place of comfort in the absence of perceptible challenges. The Opposition is dormant, more so after it was buffeted by significant losses in the bypolls held thereafter. However, beneath the surface calm, what is discernible is the incipient stirring in the Muslim political class which is increasingly disillusioned with the so-called guardians of their lives and properties and has begun to lose faith and confidence in the Samajwadi Party, Bahujan Samaj Party and the Congress as the guarantors of security, economic stability, political co-existence and enhanced representation in the legislature.

Ask a Muslim to list her priorities and invariably, the four factors will be listed in that particular order. "Security" encompasses the gamut of lives led inside their homes and outside in public spaces without the fear of threats and attacks by political adversaries and people at large. UP's Muslims have even stopped looking at the non-BJP parties for an increased share of tickets in an election, much less secure their backing to get elected.

An index of how much the community is resigned to its fate was evident when Deoband's seminary, Darul Uloom, stated it will not oppose the UP government's current survey of unrecognised madrasas and directed their management to cooperate with the officials. Muslims want to survive in peace.

Imran Masood, once wooed by the non-BJP spectrum for his vote-pulling skill, typified the quandary Muslim leaders found themselves in. Masood, 51, is from western UP that has the largest population of Muslims who not only influenced but determined the course of the region's electoral politics before the BJP's rise. A favourite of Priyanka Gandhi Vadra, he quit the Congress in January 2022 and joined the SP for brighter prospects. Indeed, in the last state polls, the SP, in tandem with its allies, was projected as a comparable rival of the BJP, a perception that propelled Muslims to gravitate towards the coalition almost en bloc, despite the leaders, notably Akhilesh Yadav, conducting a markedly defensive campaign to escape being labelled as "Muslim appeasers" by the BJP. Muslims rejected the BSP as well as the Congress. The SP failed to live up to the community's expectations. The BJP's return, albeit with fewer seats, plunged UP's minorities in confusion.

In October this year, Masood joined the BSP and was instantly appointed as the coordinator of its western unit, a position that helped him leverage his standing in the community to an extent. Masood's reason for joining Mayawati's party, despite the BSP getting just one MLA in the last election, was that she still "retained" her Dalit votes (a debatable assumption, going by hard data) and, therefore, had a base which Muslim votes could build on. For Mayawati, the BSP chief, Masood afforded a "credible" passage to re-enter the Muslim space which has been shrinking for the BSP since 2007.

The conviction of a senior leader, Azam Khan, also from western UP, and his subsequent disqualification from the assembly (he was elected from Rampur for the 10th time), was a more serious setback for the SP than Masood's exit, especially because the BJP "celebrated" the development as a "symbolic" victory. A special court in Rampur sentenced Khan for certain remarks he had publicly made on Prime Minister Narendra Modi and UP chief minister Yogi Adityanath before the 2019 polls. Khan had already served a prison sentence until May 2022 for a range of offences which included goat and buffalo theft.

Khan was more important to the SP not only because of his domination over Rampur but the western region as a whole, drawn largely from the fact that he set up the Mohammad Ali Jauhar University, a back-up for the Aligarh Muslim University. He was charged with appropriating land for the varsity, which became an eyesore for the area's Hindus.

Despite the legal entanglement, Khan wrested Rampur from the BJP in the 2017 Lok Sabha polls but later resigned to hold on to his assembly seat. The subsequent events reflected poorly on the SP and the worsening plight of Muslims.

The SP lost Rampur Lok Sabha to the BJP in the ensuing bypoll. The BSP did not put up a candidate because it dawned on Mayawati that she must make good her loss of minority support. While Khan fielded a confidant of his, the BJP named an ex-confidant of Khan as its nominee. But Akhilesh did not campaign in Rampur. Worse, he forfeited his own former Lok Sabha seat, Azamgarh, to the BJP. The difference was while Akhilesh rushed to Azamgarh after the rout to assuage the "hurt" sentiments of the Yadavs because incidentally the BJP's winner was also a Yadav, he passed up Rampur as though Khan was inconsequential.

Akhilesh's strategy to marginalise the SP's veterans like Khan, who were closely associated with his late father, Mulayam Singh Yadav, is understandable but at what political cost?

Indeed, after Khan's recent conviction, Akhilesh was chary of responding while Mayawati and an SP ally, the Rashtriya Lok Dal, openly alleged "discrimination" by the UP government. The cracks were visible. Not only was the BSP working to retrieve the minority votes, but Asaduddin Owaisi, the AIMIM chief who desperately sought a foothold in UP, spied an opening in the Rampur loss and pronounced that the SP was "incapable" of taking on the BJP. Why talk of the non-BJP parties?

Khan's assembly seat is up for a bypoll on December 5. The BJP was resolutely contesting this seat after the Rampur Lok Sabha win and began prepping by convening a conference of the Pasmanda (backward caste and Dalit) Muslims in the city ostensibly to divide the votes.

The bypoll is a test for the SP and Akhilesh's ability to keep Muslims on their side. If they fail, it will cast serious doubts about the viability of the SP's core support base and force Muslims to search for options.

Rewind to history: In 1989, after Muslims turned away from the Congress because Rajiv Gandhi was seen to have "facilitated" the laying of the foundation for the Ayodhya temple, they turned to the Janata Dal. In the 1993 UP polls that followed the Babri demolition in 1992, the SP was their choice and remained so barring an occasional break. The BJP's serial success in UP underlined the irrelevance of the Muslim vote, thereby causing a deep-seated problem for the "secular" parties and the community itself.

BIRDIE OF THE PUBLIC SPHERE

SPEAKEASY

In fascinated horror, the world is watching Elon Musk destroy Twitter like a spoilt brat banging a shiny new toy against the wall. Would such wilful damage to any other major digital brand, even Microsoft, cause global alarm? Probably not, because they all have alternatives—even Microsoft, the leading operating system maker since the MSDOS era.

But Twitter is unique in social media for the speed with which interest groups can rally on it, just using hashtags. It's the fastest messaging system for the public in extreme situations, from natural disasters and war to the sudden shortage of oxygen during the pandemic. If a tremor is felt in Delhi, which is on a fault line, it's on Twitter well before the official announcement—which also appears on Twitter. If a tropical storm is headed for the Coromandel coast, you learn when it makes landfall on Twitter.

Wonder what the occupations of Iraq and Afghanistan, which were reported mostly by 'embedded' journalists, whose sources were safely in uniform, would have looked like if the public had access to locals on Twitter. During Desert Storm in 1991, the round-the-clock broadcasts by Peter Arnett on CNN were the world's only source of independent information. And since only hotels had a dish antenna at the time, Dhirubhai Ambani's Observer of Business and Politics installed a 'CNN Monitoring Team' there, whose reports filled the front page and bumped up circulation. Arnett made CNN, a channel out of Atlanta, a global brand, though his broadcasts did not pay the bills—that honour went to Ted Turner's canny real estate investments in the Midwest.

But imagine if there was Twitter at the time, giving voice to the really independent observers—the Iraqis on the ground. Arnett, who reported mostly from a hotel, would have been an also-ran.

Traditional media realised very early that Facebook is a nice place for sharing your great-aunt's birthday pictures, but Twitter is on their turf. Intelligently, instead of fighting it, they embraced the medium. And the platform, whose slogan read 'People on Twitter are the first to know', obliged by introducing the blue tick of authenticity.

Now, Elon Musk wants to sell the blue tick for $8 a month. That's a bit like the education mafia in Bihar in the Nineties, which used to sell impressive-looking college degrees for cash.

Musk, being a businessman rather than a fly-by-night operator, is offering a subscription, not a one-time sale, but the certification is of no value because it is purchased, not earned. It won't pay for a fraction of Twitter's operating cost, either. But Twitter was originally the medium of the underdog, and they are using the scheme subversively. Eli Lilly's share price took a hit when an impostor highlighted the obvious—that it has been price-gouging on insulin.

In the beginning, Twitter was exactly the opposite of Musk's vision. It was the networking and outreach medium of choice for marginalised groups and suppressed opinions, and it accelerated the spread of the Arab Spring across nations. Soon, it was adopted by every interest group that shouts from the sidelines of high-minded but ineffective conclaves like COP27, which is now in progress. Climate activists were early adopters, along with the Occupy movement, whose ideas about wealth and equity, formalised in David Graeber's Debt: The First 5,000 Years, are radically different from what's taught in undergraduate economics classrooms. Minorities made it their amplifier. In India, that means Dalits, who are actually the majority but are marginalised.

AP

Musk, a businessman rather than a fly-by-night operator, is offering a subscription, not a one-time sale, but the certification is of no value because it is purchased, not earned. It won't pay for a fraction of Twitter's operating cost, either

Everyone who treads a path that diverges from the mainstream makes their home on Twitter, preferring it to other social media. With respect to India, voices of interest range from satellite imagery analysts who give the lie to the government's rhetoric on the border issue with China—they have pictures of Chinese villages and highways being built right in the zone—to the economist Kaushik Basu, who points out embarrassing realities about the economic situation, and invites long doomscrolls of vituperation from lynch mobs.

The mob is the majoritarian reaction to the rise of the marginalised, the IT cell is its semi-formal incarnation, and it has turned Twitter into a cesspool. Writing on the ongoing Twitter meltdown in the New York Times, the paper's former New Delhi hand Lydia Polgreen notes an important point that is strangely not obvious in New York. While US opinion closely tracks America and China, the terminal points on the free speech spectrum, the countries to actually watch are democracies where speech and privacy laws remain works in progress, like India and Brazil. These are also the places where democracy seems to teeter forever on the brink of authoritarianism as governments push the envelope.

But in India, Twitter pushed back, moving courts against government rules that open the door to political censorship. It also asked, in court, why it must block the accounts of critics of the government if the traditional media is free to report on the farmers' movement. It's a sharp contrast to Facebook, which has gently stroked the government the right way.

There lies the rub. Musk has diverse business interests, which may cause him to pull back on the lawsuit. A free speech absolutist in the US, he may cause the platform to lose relevance in countries like India, where silence is being normalised. But in that silence, the footfalls of Mastodon are ever louder. The future could belong to such decentralised platforms where, like with Bitcoin, no one is in charge.

Rahul on Savarkar

Apropos of Rahul Gandhi, Savarkar, and the clemency question (Nov 22). The columnist has rightly pointed out how the compatriots of the freedom movement like Ambedkar and Savarkar were overshadowed by the Gandhi-Nehru juggernaut. Rahul repeatedly belittling Savarkar's mercy petition to the British would only decrease the political fortunes and electoral dividends of the Congress.
Venkat Desikan, Chennai

Rahul's questionable strategy

The column, while underscoring the unquestionable national spirit of Savarkar, highlights the insignificance and irrelevance of the clemency petition. Rahul has not only damaged the prospects of his own party which is pining for Hindu votes, but there is now an opportunity for the new generation to understand the neglected freedom warriors.

Tales of Gujarat

Apropos of First Rahul-Modi sparring match on Guj poll turf (Nov 22). The Congress is trying to gain a foothold in Gujarat by raking up irrelevant and mundane issues which have no relevance to the present situation in the state. Voters don't really know their CM since Modi is the mascot. Undoubtedly, the BJP will continue its reign in the state.

Tharoor's motives clean

By undertaking a tour to different parts of North Kerala and addressing a couple of meetings, Shashi Tharoor has neither indulged in any anti-party activity nor violated any party norm. He is still very much a part of the Congress and his only intention seems to be to strengthen the party in whatever way he can. Then why is a section in the Congress still uncomfortable with him?

India-Aus free trade agreement gets go-ahead

Australian Parliament approves FTA

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

AUSTRALIAN parliament on Tuesday approved the crucial India-Australia free trade agreement (FTA), paving way for both countries to implement the trade pact on a mutually agreed date. Australian Prime Minister, Anthony Albanese, announced this through a tweet. "Our free trade agreement with India has passed through the Parliament," he tweeted.

Just a few days back PM Albanese, during the sidelines of the G20 Summit in Bali, had said that he would visit India in March 2023. Earlier in April this year both India and Australia had signed an interim Economic Cooperation and Trade Agreement (ECTA) and had reaffirmed their commitment to conclude a Comprehensive Economic Cooperation Agreement (CECA) by the end of 2022. The bilateral trade between the two countries has increased from $13.6 billion in 2007 to $27.5 billion at present.

Meanwhile, Australian exporters, businesses, workers and consumers will soon be able to reap the benefits of a more open trade with India with today's passage of implementing legislation through the Parliament.

The Albanese Government has worked hard to expeditiously advance all processes necessary, to ensure Australia is in a position to implement a free trade agreement before the end of 2022.

"New trade agreements with India will strengthen our existing trade and economic relationships. These new agreements will create new opportunities for trade diversification and great outcomes for Australian business and families," said the Australian PM. "It is an acknowledgement of the centrality of trade to our economic resilience and ongoing prosperity," he added.

The ECTA is a great opportunity for Australian businesses as it will open up new markets to reach around 1.4 billion consumers in the world's fastest growing major economy. "I am thrilled to see implementing legislation for the Australia-India Economic Cooperation and Trade Agreement pass through both houses of Australia's Parliament without dissent," Australia's High Commissioner to India, Barry O'Farrell said.

ECTA presents exciting opportunities for Australian and Indian businesses alike, paving the way for improved market access for businesses on both sides of the Indian Ocean. India-Australia are now looking forward to the second innings: negotiation of a full Comprehensive Economic Cooperation Agreement.

Defence, trade talks between India & UAE

EXTERNAL Affairs Minister, Dr S Jaishankar, held talks with his UAE counterpart Sheikh Abdullah bin Zayed Al Nahyan in Delhi on Tuesday. The two ministers discussed cooperation in the areas of energy, food security, trade and defence, besides exchanging views on various "regional hotspots". They had earlier met for the 14th Joint Commission meeting in September. Bilateral trade between India, UAE has shown appreciable growth under the Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement which came into force on May 1, 2022.

'Need to instil gender sensitivity among boys'

THE sheer brutality meted out to the victims by the accused in some of the recent murder cases is not only shocking, but also extremely disturbing.

Dr Suresh Badamath, professor, Psychiatry, and head of Forensic Psychiatry, National Institute of Mental Health and Neuro Sciences (Nimhans), Bengaluru, spoke to Bala Chauhan regarding this extreme form of violence. Excerpts from the interview:

What is the reason behind such gruesome crimes?

One cannot generalise the reasons behind such extreme brutality and it is too early to come to any conclusion since all these case are recent, and are under investigation. But while the modus operandi in each of the these cases seems to have similarities, the reasons could be different, ranging from probable domestic violence (DV), intimate partner violence (IPV), extreme anger, disposal of evidence, social modeling from OTT serials and pleasure-related crimes to human sacrifice cases related to faith. The underlying cause can be a combination of these factors. However, there is a lack of gender sensitivity since all victims are women. DV and IPV are gendered issues and have very high prevalence.

Violence in live-in relationships is covered under the DV Act, 2005. DV is a violent expression of power equation in which a woman is trapped, isolated from her parents and other support system and goes through the cycle of 'honeymoon period' and extreme abuse by her spouse/partner, making it very difficult for her to come out if it. She also undergoes the Stockholm Syndrome in which she begins to empathise with the abuser.

Murder itself is heinous. Why dismemberment of bodies?

Hard to say. Reasons could range from rage and extreme revenge to easy disposal of the dead bodies.

How do women come out of violent relationships?

There has to be en masse gender sensitisation in the country. Women need to be empowered to believe from Day One of their relationship that violence is not a form of love. There must be a strong support system to help a woman in a coercive relationship. She should not be stigmatised for walking out of such a relationship. If the society remains conducive, violence against women will not stop. It is important to raise gender sensitivity among boys to become empathetic men. Most violence is observed as learnt behaviour. The abuser may have seen violence at home.

Are there enough forensic psychiatrists to analyse such behaviours?

Unlike in the West, there is an acute dearth of forensic psychiatrists in India to carry out mental assessment of the accused. There are no specialised training programmes in forensic psychiatry in India barring a post-doctoral fellowship initiated at Nimhans in 2016. Most forensic evaluations are done by the treating psychiatrist, who has little or no formal training in forensic psychiatry.

BRUTAL BEYOND BELIEF

Shraddha Walkar's murder by her live-in partner Aaftab Amin Poonawala in Delhi is 3rd among 4 such crimes involving gruesome killing and dismemberment of bodies of the victims — all women — in India since June this year.

The latest case of alleged gang rape, murder and dismemberment of a female victim emerged in Gauri ka Pura in Paschimpatti, Azamgarh of Uttar Pradesh. There were reportedly no clothes on the victim's head, arms and legs recovered from a well

The 1st such reported case in the last few months surfaced in Mandya district of Karnataka in August. Siddaligappa and his partner Chandrakala allegedly killed 3 women in span of 1 month. They severed the body of the last 2 victims using a knife for "easy disposal," sources had told this daily

56 PIECES

Last month, 3 accused — Mohammed Shafi and a therapist couple Bhagaval Singh and his wife Laila — were arrested for murder of 2 women in Kerala as part of "ritualistic human sacrifice for financial prosperity," said the police. Chopped body parts of the deceased were exhumed from Singh's backyard at Elanthoor village in Pathanamthitta district. The breasts of one of them had been chopped off and the body of the other was reportedly cut into 56 pieces.

SC to hear NIA plea challenging bail to Teltumbde on Nov 25

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

THE The Supreme Court on Tuesday agreed to consider National Investigation Agency's (NIA) plea challenging the bail granted to Elgar Parishad accused Anand Teltumbde on November 25.

A bench of CJI DY Chandrachud, Justices Hima Kohli and JB Pardiwala agreed to consider the plea pursuant to an urgent mentioning made by SG Tushar Mehta. SG urged the bench to hear the plea in next few days since the HCs bail order was on hold only for a week.

Challenging Bombay HCs November 18 ruling, NIA argued in the plea that the HC erroneously granted bail to Dalit scholar activist, by conducting a mini trial and roving inquiry by analysing in detail five document being letters which were seized during searches and statements under section 164 of CrPC. It was also argued in the petition that the HC made observations that would influence the trial and investigation of NIA.

While granting Tetumbde bail, HC had observed that it was prima facie of the opinion that it could not be concluded that he had indulged into any terrorist activity. The court had also noted that Mr Teltumbde had been in jail for more than two years.

The plea further added that the professor is an active and senior member of CPI(M) working in the urban areas who was regularly in contact with other co accused who were also members of the party.

Plea on electoral bond to be heard on December 6

The Supreme Court on Tuesday posted the pleas challenging the Centre's November 7 notification allowing the sale of electoral bonds for 15 extra days during the year of elections to the state assemblies and UTs for December 6. A bench of CJI DY Chandrachud, Justice Hima Kohli and JB Pardiwala tagged the pleas with the Association of Democratic Reform's plea challenging the electoral bond scheme.

Lawyers to call off strike after CJI's assurance

The Gujarat High Court Advocates Association decided to call off their strike on Tuesday after the assurance by CJI DY Chandrachud to look into the proposed transfer of Justice Nikhil Kariel to Patna HC. The assurance was made by the CJI in a meet held on Monday between the representatives of the Advocates Association, CJI and two other collegium members (Justice SK Kaul and MR Shah).

Why no CEC gets 6-year term, asks Supreme Court

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday questioned the way Chief Election Commissioners (CEC) are appointed, noting that whichever party comes to power, CECs invariably get truncated tenures.

A five-judge Constitution bench headed by Justice K M Joseph made the observation while considering a petition seeking a collegium-like system for appointment of members of the Election Commission. Underlining various examples of CECs having very short tenures since 2007, Justice Joseph said the candidates' date of birth is known to the government and yet, they pick those who wouldn't last the full term of six years.

According to the Election Commission (Conditions of Service of Election Commissioners and Transaction of Business) Act, 1991, a CEC will have a tenure of six years but will have to vacate office when he or she attains the age of 65 years.

Justice Joseph said short tenure affects the independence of the CEC. "This trend has continued... be it the UPA government or this government," he added.

The judge further said that the court is very well aware of the government's reluctance to let go of the present structure. Referring to Article 324(2) of the Constitution under which the appointments to members of the Election Commission of India are made by the President subject to law made by Parliament, the court asked Attorney General R Venkataramani to apprise the bench on whether any law has been implemented by the legislature for such appointments.

The bench said, "The Constitution has cast an obligation on Parliament. If there is a room for making a law, can how long you can argue you will not? We are taking this up after 70 years." The AG submitted that the court should not step into Parliament's domain.

'Need CJI in select panel'

The Supreme Court said "silence of the Constitution" is exploited by all parties, adding that the absence of a law governing the appointments of ECs and CECs a "disturbing trend". It said the presence of the CJI in the select panel would be the best system

White House 'committed' to confirm Garcetti as US Ambassador to India

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

ERIC Garcetti, Mayor of Los Angeles, is slated to become US's Ambassador to India, a position lying vacant since early 2021. His term as the mayor, too, comes to an end next month.

It has been 16 months since US President, Joe Biden, nominated him in July 2021; however, a Senate vote on the appointment has not been scheduled yet now and his allies strain to reach the 50 votes needed for approval. The Senate approval for his appointment is stalled for over a year over a sexual abuse scandal he is embroiled in. "The Biden administration is committed to getting Eric Garcetti as the US envoy to New Delhi," the White House said, hoping that the Senate will confirm his nomination soon.

"India is a very important relationship that we have. You saw the President (Biden) greet and meet very briefly with PM (Narendra) Modi just last week when he was in Bali. So clearly, it's an important relationship that we truly respect," White House Press Secretary Karine Jean-Pierre said on Monday.

"As for Mayor Garcetti, we are committed to getting him through the process. We're continuing to talk to the Senate about making that happen. That is a priority of ours," Jean-Pierre said. Garcetti had earlier served 12 years as an intelligence officer in the US Navy Reserve and is keen on moving to Delhi as the next US Ambassador. A Rhodes Scholar, he met his wife, Amy Elaine Wakeland, in Oxford. They have one adopted daughter.

'Central govt working in mission mode'

NEW DELHI: PM Narendra Modi distributed about 71,000 appointment letters to newly inducted recruits under Rozgar Mela via video conferencing on Tuesday. "The Central government is working in mission mode to provide employment opportunities to the youths of the country. And, the 'Rozgar Mela' is proof of this government's commitment on employments', he said after launching the Karmayogi Bharat Technology platform to start 'Karmayogi Prarambhu Module-an online orientation courses for new appointees. He recalled that a similar Rozgar Mela was held earlier in several states and UTs including Maharashtra, Gujarat, UP, Jammu & Kashmir, Ladakh, Andaman and Nicobar and others.

Priyanka all set to join brother's yatra in MP today

ANURAAG SINGH @Bhopal

PRIYANKA Gandhi Vadra will join Rahul Gandhi when his 'Bharat Jodo Yatra' enters Madhya Pradesh from Maharashtra on Wednesday.

This would be the first time that Priyanka, the Congress national general secretary and party's face in politically crucial Uttar Pradesh, will join her brother in the yatra, which started on September 7.

Party general secretary in-charge of communications Jairam Ramesh tweeted that Priyanka would join the yatra for four days.

This would be perhaps the first time since May 2019 that she will be touring the Malwa-Nimar region of the central Indian state. Earlier, in May 2019, she had toured the western MP region for the Lok Sabha polls, when MP was ruled by the Kamal Nath-led Congress government. The party, however, had badly lost all the eight seats of the region, including Ratlam and Indore, where she had addressed rallies and held a road show, besides Ujjain.

The yatra is scheduled to enter the Hindi heartland on Wednesday morning through Bodarli village in Burhanpur district.

Burhanpur district party sources said the Bodarli village has a historic link with the Nehru-Gandhi family, as Indira Gandhi had addressed a torchlight rally in the same village 42 years back, in support of party candidate Shiv Kumar Singh during the 1980 Lok Sabha polls. Indira Gandhi had also toured the tribal-dominated Burhanpur and Khandwa districts for three days, mostly in an open jeep, powering the party candidate to victory over BJP stalwart Kushabhau Thakre.

In MP, the yatra will travel around 399 km, through 25-30 assembly segments of six districts, including Burhanpur, Khandwa, Khargone, Indore, Ujjain, and Agar-Malwa, before entering Rajasthan on December 5.

Hindutva: Back to basics for Guj BJP

Amit Shah claims credit for removing encroachments done by a specific community

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @Ahmedabad

FRONTLOADING its development agenda with the 'double-engine' push, the BJP in Gujarat is reinforcing its campaign pitch with tried-and-tested Hindutva formula.

Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Tuesday sought to own up the removal of encroachments built across the key districts allegedly by a particular community, saying that Congress was unable to perform its duty due to vote bank politics.

At a rally in the Khambhat assembly constituency in Ananad district, Shah listed demolition works done by the BJP in Muslim areas, saying 'fake mazars' were removed from residence of Lord Krishna's Dwarka, an island near Gujarat's Okha town.

"Be it mazar or graves, shouldn't encroachments be removed? Congress may not like it. Even if they don't, the BJP will continue the clean-up. There is no need to be afraid," said Shah.

"The state government under CM Bhupendra Patel and Home Minister Harsh Sanghvi removed fake mazars in Beit Dwarka. But the Congress said we were polarizing people," Shah said.

He also reminded the people about the development works done by the BJP government at various pilgrimage centres. "For years, there was a Mazar in Pavagadh (a pilgrimage spot in Gujarat). It is the BJP government that built a Kali temple atop the hill there. Congress will never do such a thing. But we are not afraid of any vote bank. For the BJP government, the country's security is more important than us remaining in power," said Shah.

Be it mazar or graves, shouldn't encroachments be removed? Congress may not like it. Even if they don't, the BJP will continue the clean-up. There is no need to be afraid —Amit Shah, Union Home Minister

"Don't let Congress come to power or else communal riots will begin again and you will again face difficulties," Shah said. Talking about removing Article 370 in Kashmir, Shah said, "After so many years, PM Modi completed Sardar Patel's dream of 'Akhand Bharat' and our Kashmir adorns the crown of Bharat Mata."

He also talked about demolition being undertaken in a Muslim-majority area in an Assembly. On April 10, a clash erupted between two communities during a Ram Navami procession in Shakarpur village of Khambhat town that resulted in the death of one person and injuries to at least half-a-dozen people.

Meanwhile, after a dazzling show put up by its top leaders last week in the first phase of polling due December 1, party leaders on Tuesday held local-level meetings across 93 assembly constituencies that go to the polls in the second phase of the state elections.

The elections for the 182-member Assembly will be held in two phases on December 1 and 5. The counting of votes will be taken up on December 8.

At another rally, Shah alleged that the Congress did everything possible to "insult" Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel and it has started praising him only now in view of the Gujarat Assembly elections.

Even the last rites of the country's first deputy prime minister were performed in an "unceremonious" way, the BJP leader said.

"I am surprised that the Congress now praises Sardar Patel. Since my childhood, I have never heard any Congress leader talk about Patel. Instead, they left no stone unturned to insult Patel, right from performing his last rites in an unceremonious manner to ensuring that no monument was built in his memory," Shah said.

Voting for Khambhat and 92 other seats will take place on December 5, in the second phase of the Assembly polls.

'War of supremacy' ahead of cabinet meet

An unpleasant situation arose when two ministers of Nitish Kumar's cabinet had a heated argument ahead of the meeting last week. The minister belonging to Lalu Prasad's RJD, known for his muscle power, lost his cool over frequent interference by his colleague from JDU. The former is considered close to RJD supremo Lalu Prasad, whereas the latter is stated to be a trusted lieutenant of Nitish Kumar. BJP is of the view that after the clash of two titans, merger of JD(U) with RJD has been put on hold.

Sanitary pad vending machines in schools

Living up to its reputation of being a pro-woman government, the Bihar government will install sanitary napkin vending machines at middle, secondary and higher secondary girls' government schools, benefitting five million students. One machine each will also be installed at all 534 Kasturba Gandhi schools, collectorates and Police Lines. Vending machines will also be installed in ladies toilets of each department in the state Secretariat. Earlier, a senior woman IAS officer had courted controversy when she, remarked that one day 'you will ask for a free condom after marriage'.

Officer caught taking bribe via Google Pay

It was a smooth transaction of money between a corrupt officer and his clients through a mobile payment application, Google Pay, until he got caught. The circle officer of Sampatchak in Patna district was so sure of hoodwinking the law enforcers that he used to accept bribes online. Breaking all established 'codes' of bribe, the officer even ran his own private office for fixing deals with the people visiting him for mutation of land property or correction in land records at his private office, with the same government employees who were taking bribe on his behalf.

CBI files 500-pg chargesheet in Phogat murder

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

THE Central Bureau of Investigation has filed a 500-page chargesheet in Goa's Mapusa court in the death of BJP leader and TikTok star Sonali Phogat, charging her aides Sudhir Sangwan and Sukhwinder Singh with murder.

The court has posted the hearing on December 5.

Poghat's family from Haryana's Hisar had demanded a CBI inquiry into her death. The Goa police handed over the case to the CBI in September. The CBI team along with forensic experts had studied the crime scene, recreating it by visiting the Grand Leoney Resort, where Phogat and her two associates were staying, as well as the Curlies night club, where Phogat was last seen partying.

Phogat, 43, was brought dead to a hospital on August 22 night. She had reached Goa with Sangwan and Singh a day. A CCTV footage from the restaurant showed her being escorted out by the two.

Yogi announces global investor summit in Feb

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

IN bid to make Uttar Pradesh $1 trillion economy and attract ₹10 lakh crore investment to contribute to country's growth, Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath formally announced the itinerary of "Uttar Pradesh Global Investors Summit-2023" by unveiling its logo in New Delhi on Tuesday.

He invited industrial investors from all over the world to invest in Uttar Pradesh which intends to hold a global investors summit on February 10-12, 2023..

"Uttar Pradesh is at the pinnacle of a progressive transformational journey under the guidance of Prime Minister Narendra Modi. Uttar Pradesh has set a goal of $1 trillion, following the Prime Minister's plan to grow India's economy to $5 trillion," he said.

He added that Uttar Pradesh has set a target of attracting ₹10 lakh crore investment through this event. Partner nations will include Denmark, Mauritius, the UK, Singapore and the Netherlands.

The chief minister said that so far 21 countries have expressed their enthusiasm to participate in the event.

"The state government is also organising road shows in 18 countries and seven major cities of India to invite industrial investors to the summit," he said.

Yogi noted that Uttar Pradesh's business climate has significantly improved over time as a result of offering effective policy assistance and top-notch infrastructure.

"For proactive investor connect, our government has developed a new online system called 'Nivesh Sarathi' for signing MoUs and monitoring their implementation, as well as an online incentive management system," he said, adding that the state government has launched various projects in sectors like IT, defence and aerospace, electric vehicle, warehousing and logistics, tourism, and textile, etc.

Omar staying away from polls, dad likely to be party's CM face in J&K

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

WITH former Jammu and Kashmir chief minister Omar Abdullah not contesting the Assembly polls in the Union Territory, veteran leader Farooq Abdullah is likely to be the CM candidate of National Conference. The Assembly polls are expected to be held next year.

Abdullah, 85, a three-time former CM who is currently the Lok Sabha MP from Srinagar, recently announced his decision to step down as the NC president after remaining at helm of the party for 34 years. He, however, announced that he would contest the Assembly polls whenever they are held.

It is a change of strategy on the part of senior Abdullah, who had last contested Assembly elections in J&K in 2008.

His son Omar, who is NC's vice president, has already announced that he would not fight the Assembly polls in J&K until the restoration of its statehood. PDP chief and former CM Mehbooba Mufti too has said that she will not contest till statehood is restored.

Both the NC and PDP are part of the Gupkar Alliance, which also comprises CPI, CPM and ANC. It will be interesting to see if Abdullah emerges as a CM candidate of the Alliance.

Omar, meanwhile, is tipped to take over as the new NC president, the elections for which will be held on December 5.

Now, it is expected that senior Abdullah would be the party's chief ministerial candidate in the first-ever Assembly polls in J&K after it was made a Union Territory in 2019.

Farooq, who was the CM from 1996 to 2002, did not contest the polls in 2002, and his son Omar was projected as the CM candidate. However, the NC lost, and the PDP and Congress formed a coalition government in the erstwhile state.

In 2008, Farooq contested the polls from Sonawar and won. However, on the insistence of Sonia Gandhi, Omar became the CM of the NC-PDP coalition government and his rule continued until 2014. In 2014, PDP and BJP, which had fought against each other, formed the government. J&K is under direct central rule since June 2018, when PDP-BJP government collapsed after BJP withdrew support.

Maha BJP defends Guv over Shivaji remark, says Oppn politicising issue

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mumbai

AMID growing calls for the removal of Bhagat Singh Koshyari, the BJP came out to defend the Maharashtra governor, saying that the Opposition is twisting his remarks about Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj and politicising the issue.

Maharashtra BJP president Chandrashekhar Bawankule said that the party's 18 crore workers are inspired by Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj and that no one can diminish the importance of Shivaji in history.

Bawankule said that Koshyari has always respected Chhatrapati Shivaji since assuming the Maharashtra governor's post. "At the age of 79, Koshyari climbed the Shivneri Fort on foot to pay obeisance at the birthplace of Shivaji Majaraj. We do not support his statement, but this statement should not be over-stretched and politicised," he added.

Union minister of state for Social Justice and Empowerment Ramdas Athwale said that they do not support the Koshyari's statement, but the Opposition should respect the governor's chair.

Earlier, Deputy Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis had echoed the same thought, saying that the issue was being exaggerated by the Opposition. He added that the governor had no intention to hurt anyone's sentiment through his remarks.

However, the Opposition continued to protest for the removal of Koshyari from his post. NCP state spokesperson Mahesh Tapase wrote to President Droupadi Murmu, seeking a fair probe into his statements to take action against him. He said that Koshyari has continued to insult state heroes and icons through his remarks. "If the governor does not understand the culture and history of Maharashtra, he better not speak about it," Tapase said.

For '23 MP polls, BJP & Cong shift focus to 84 tribal-dominated seats

ANURAAG SINGH @Bhopal

A year before the Assembly polls in Madhya Pradesh, the ruling BJP and the Opposition Congress seem to be zeroing in on the 84 tribal-dominated seats to fancy their chances of winning the central Indian state with a clear majority.

While the BJP, which has already been focusing on the tribal card through a series of announcements since October 2021, the latest being the implementation of new rules of the Panchayats Extension to Scheduled Areas (PESA) Act, the Congress is banking heavily on Rahul Gandhi's Bharat Jodo Yatra, as it will travel through the south west and western districts of the state, which are dominated by the Bhil, Bhilala and Korku tribes.

Tribal communities, including Bhil, Bhilala, Gond, Korku, Baiga, Saharia, Kol and Bharia constitute over 21% of voters in 230 Assembly segments of Madhya Pradesh. Out of these, 84 are tribal-dominated constituencies, with 47 seats being reserved for ST candidates.

In the 2013 polls, the BJP had won 60 out of these 84 seats, (and 165 out of the 230 seats), but the numbers slumped to 34 in 2018. The Congress, which had won 24 of the 84 seats in 2013 (and just 58 seats in total in the state), jumped to 47 of the same seats, while its rebels were victorious on three seats.

BJP's multi-pronged strategy to woo tribals

The BJP government in MP has implemented a host of tribal-centric initiatives, particularly named after tribal heroes. These include restoring places linked with tribal icons, and other steps like self-employment schemes. The recent implementation of PESA Act's new rules in presence of President Droupadi Murmu, is being seen as a masterstroke.

The BJP's tribal-centric initiatives began with Union Home Minister Amit Shah unveiling the twin statues of tribal heroes, the father-son Gond king duo Raja Shankar Shah and Raja Raghunath Shah in September 2021. Two months later, Prime Minister Narendra Modi then marked freedom fighter Birsa Munda's birth anniversary as Janjatiya Gaurav Diwas. He also unveiled the railway station in Bhopal, named after the city's last tribal queen, Rani Kamlapati.

Since then the Shivraj Singh Chouhan government has implemented a host of tribal-centric initiatives, particularly named after tribal heroes, including Birsa Munda and Tantya Bheel. These initiatives not only include restoring places associated with tribal heroes, but also other measures like self-employment schemes. The recent implementation of PESA Act's new rules in presence of President Droupadi Murmu, is being seen as a masterstroke by the BJP.

The Congress has been dubbing the BJP as anti-tribal by highlighting incidents of crime against tribals.

"Our state president Kamal Nath is known to be the champion of the tribal cause, which has been proved right by the party's polls success in Mahakoshal and Malwa-Nimar region in 2018. Now, the Bharat Jodo Yatra will go a long way in presenting that all factions of the state Congress are united, and also give a proper launch-pad for the party's future campaign in tribal areas," a Congress leader told this daily.

6 SHOT DEAD ON BORDER BETWEEN ASSAM, MEGHALAYA

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

FIVE civilians and a forest guard were killed and several others injured in an incident of firing on the Assam-Meghalaya border early morning on Tuesday.

The firing took place between "Assam forest officials and unknown miscreants" at Mukhrow under Jirikinding police station in the state's West Karbi Anglong district, the Assam government said. It happened when the forest party attempted to stop a truck smuggling out illegal timber. "When the truck was stopped by the forest party personnel, they were gheraoed by unknown miscreants who resorted to violence. In order to save their lives, the forest party resorted to firing," the Assam government's statement said.

Later in the day, the Assam government decided to hand over the probe to a central/neutral investigation agency. It also instituted a judicial inquiry by a retired judge of the high court to ascertain the facts, circumstances and reasons behind the incident.

Besides, it transferred West Karbi Anglong Superintendent of Police Imdad Ali and placed under suspension Officer-in-Charge of Jirikinding police station Kajal Nath and Forest Protection Officer Shikari Enghi.

Both Assam and Meghalaya governments also separately announced ₹5 lakh each as ex gratia to the next of kin of the victims.

Meghalaya Chief Minister Conrad K Sangma strongly condemned the incident. He said the Assam Police and its forest guards entered Meghalaya and resorted to unprovoked firing.

"GoM will take all steps to ensure justice is served and action is taken against those responsible in this inhuman act."

Quake toll jumps to 268, hunt on for survivors

Indonesian President Joko Widodo promises assistance up to $3,180 to each resident whose house was damaged

CIANJUR

INDONESIAN rescuers used jackhammers and sometimes their bare hands on Tuesday to shift the rubble of flattened buildings as they searched for the dead and missing from an earthquake centered in Cianjur district that killed at least 268 people.

With many missing, some remote areas still unreachable and more than 1,000 people injured in the 5.6 magnitude quake, the death toll was likely to rise. Hospitals near the epicentre on the densely populated island of Java were already overwhelmed, and patients hooked up to IV drips lay on stretchers and cots in tents set up outside, awaiting further treatment.

National Disaster Mitigation Agency head Suharyanto, told reporters that 1,083 people were injured and at least 151 missing. But not all of the dead have been identified, so it's possible some of the bodies pulled from the rubble are of people on the missing list.

Rescuers cut through cement to recover the body of an earthquake victim from under the rubble of a collapsed building in Cianjur, Indonesia on Tuesday | AP

Many of the dead were public school students who had finished their classes for the day and were taking extra lessons at Islamic schools when the buildings collapsed, West Java Governor Ridwan Kamil said.

Rescue operations were focused on about a dozen locations in Cianjur, where people are still believed trapped, said Endra Atmawidjaja, the public works and housing spokesperson. "We are racing against time to rescue people," Atmawidjaja said.

Initial rescue attempts were hampered by damaged roads and bridges and power outages. By Tuesday, power supplies and phone communications had begun to improve, and Atmawidjaja said that seven excavators and 10 large trucks had been deployed from neighbouring areas to clear roads.

In the village of Cijedil, the quake triggered a landslide that blocked streets and buried several houses, said Henri Alfiandi, chief of the National Search and Rescue Agency. "We are maximising operations at several points...Our team is also trying to reach remote areas," he said.

President Joko Widodo visited Cianjur on Tuesday and pledged to rebuild infrastructure, including the main bridge connecting Cianjur to other cities, and to provide government assistance up to $3,180 to each resident whose house was damaged.

"On behalf of myself and on behalf of the government, I would like to express my deep condolences to the victims and their families in this Cianjur earthquake," he said after visiting survivors. AP

Kim's sister warns US, accuses UN of double standards

SEOUL

THE influential sister of North Korean leader Kim Jong Un warned the United States on Tuesday that it would face "a more fatal security crisis" as Washington pushes for UN condemnation of the North's recent intercontinental ballistic missile test.

Kim Yo Jong's warning came hours after US Ambassador Linda Thomas-Greenfield told an emergency meeting of the UN Security Council that the US will circulate a proposed presidential statement condemning North Korea's banned missile launches and other destabilising activities. After the meeting, Thomas-Greenfield also read a statement by 14 countries which supported action to limit North Korea's advancement of its weapons programmes.

Kim Yo Jong lambasted the US for issuing what she called "a disgusting joint statement together with such rabbles as Britain, France, Australia, Japan and South Korea."

Kim compared the US to "a barking dog seized with fear." She said North Korea would consider the US-led statement "a wanton violation of our sovereignty and a grave political provocation."

"The US should be mindful that no matter how desperately it may seek to disarm (North Korea), it can never deprive (North Korea) of its right to self-defense and that the more hell-bent it gets on the anti-(North Korea) acts, it will face a more fatal security crisis," she said.

Kim Yo Jong said the fact that North Korea's ICBM launch was discussed at the Security Council is "evidently the application of double-standards" by the UN body because it "turned blind eyes" to the US-South Korean military drills. She said North Korea won't tolerate any attempt to undermine its right to self-defense.

During the meeting, the US and its allies strongly criticised the ICBM launch and called for action to limit North Korea's nuclear and missile programmes. But Russia and China, both veto-wielding members of the Security Council, opposed any new pressure and sanctions on North Korea. AP

Kyiv detains traitor who freed Kherson prisoners

KYIV

UKRAINIAN investigators said on Tuesday that a prison official in the recently liberated city of Kherson was suspected of committing treason for releasing inmates before the Russian army's retreat.

On Tuesday, Ukraine's State Bureau of Investigation (SBI) said that an official in charge of security at a local prison collaborated with the Russian forces and allowed inmates to flee ahead of Russia's retreat.

"The SBI detained a traitor from the Kherson colony, who released prisoners before the liberation of the city," it said in a statement. "On the day Kherson was liberated from the occupiers, the colony employee pretended not to notice the escape of the prisoners and did not take any action to prevent it." He himself did not have the time to escape and was detained, the SBI added. The former employee is suspected of committing state treason and could face up to life in prison.

Meanwhile, Russian energy giant Gazprom on Tuesday said that Ukraine was diverting natural gas supplies transiting to Moldova and threatened to curtail deliveries to Europe in response. "The volume of gas supplied by Gazprom...for transit to Moldova via Ukraine is more than the physical volume transmitted at the border of Ukraine with Moldova," Gazprom said in a statement.

The Saint Petersburg-based firm said that Ukraine had allegedly obstructed 52.52 million cubic metres from being delivered to Moldova. "If the transit imbalance through Ukraine for Moldovan consumers persists, on November 28, from 10:00, Gazprom will begin reducing gas supply" through a key transit point for deliveries to Europe, the company said. AFP

LGBTQ count in California legislature jumps to 10%

Several newly elected lawmakers will now make up 10% of the California state Legislature | AP

While LGBTQ candidates and their supporters celebrated several milestone victories, California quietly reached its own. At least 10% of its state lawmakers identify publicly as LGBTQ, believed to be a first for any US legislature

PROUD OF SUCCESS

The California legislators, all Democrats, are proud of their success but say it underscores the hard work that remains in their own state and elsewhere, like handling the fallout from measures such as Florida's 'Don't Say Gay' law, which bans some lessons on sexual orientation and gender identity or laws in other states limiting transgender students' participation in sports or blocking gender-affirming medical care for youths

BREAKING RECORD

At least 519 out LGBTQ candidates won elected office this year, in positions ranging from school board up to Congress and governor, said LGBTQ Victory Fund press secretary Albert Fujii

That's a record, well up from 2020, when 336 LGBTQ candidates won, as per the group, which along with Equality California calculated that California is the first state to pass the 10% threshold

CONTRASTING EFFORTS

The increase in LGBTQ lawmakers contrasts with efforts in some states led by members of Santos' party to limit the influence, visibility and rights of LGBTQ people

In Tennessee, leaders of the state's Republican legislative supermajority said the first bill of the 2023 session will seek to ban gender-affirming care for minors. Tennessee has one LGTBQ lawmaker, Democratic Rep. Torrey Harris

The state already has banned transgender athletes from participating in girls middle and high school sports and restricted which bathrooms transgender students and employees can use

THE MEMBERS

Of the 12 current or soon-to-be members of the California Legislature, eight were already part of its LGBTQ Caucus, including the leader of the Senate and three other senators whose terms run until 2024

Four current Assembly members won reelection on November 8, with two new Assembly members and two new senators joining them, increasing the caucus's ranks by 50%

Though the newly elected LGBTQ officials are Democrats, at least one gay Republican—George Santos—won a US House seat in New York by defeating another gay man, a Democrat

The lawmakers will be sworn in for their new terms December 5; between both chambers there are 120 total legislators

Italy's draft budget aims on growth, firms hiring women to be tax exempt

ROME

Italy's new far-right government unveiled its first budget on Tuesday, with most of the nearly 35 billion euros in spending for 2023 going on the energy crisis rather than flashy electoral promises.

More than $21.5 billion will go towards supporting households and businesses with sky-high gas and electricity bills, a major cause of the soaring inflation which risks tipping the eurozone's third largest economy into recession next year.

"There are two big priorities, growth...and social justice, meaning a particular focus on families, those on the lowest incomes and the most fragile groups," Prime Minister Giorgia Meloni said.

Meloni's far-right Brothers of Italy party swept to power in elections in September, forming a coalition government with the anti-immigration League and Silvio Berlusconi's right-wing Forza Italia.

The coalition had promised to raise the annual income ceiling for the 15% tax rate for the self-employed from 65,000 euros to 100,000 euros, but the proposed budget puts it at 85,000.

Employees will benefit from tax reductions of 2% for incomes up to 35,000 euros per year, as under Draghi, and 3% for those on salaries below 20,000 euros.

Firms hiring women and young people will benefit from tax exemptions, while tax amnesties will be offered to people owing less than 1,000 euros incurred before 2015.

It also adjusted pension rules so people who have worked for 41 years can retire at 62 years old.

The government is also set to raise new revenues from a windfall tax on energy companies. The budget also includes the resurrection to construct a bridge linking Sicily to mainland Italy. AFP

SL agriculture & aviation min sacked ahead of key budget

COLOMBO

AT least two front-line ministers in the Sri Lankan government have been suspended by the Sri Lanka Freedom Party (SLFP) for breach of party discipline, it was announced on Tuesday.

"They have been suspended temporarily until they offer explanations," Dayasiri Jayasekera, the party general secretary, told reporters.

Minister of Aviation Nimal Siripala de Silva and Minister of Agriculture Mahinda Amaraweera along with three other junior ministers in the government of President Ranil Wickremesinghe were sacked by the SLFP's central committee which met last night.

The party held that they had violated the central committee's decision not to be part of the government.

The suspensions came ahead of the parliamentary approval vote of budget 2023 which is due to be unveiled later.

However, the party suspensions do not mean the two ministers are sacked from the cabinet of President Ranil Wickremesinghe.

Wickremesinghe, who is also the minister of finance, has proposed tax reforms to raise government revenue as part of his measures to overcome the current economic crisis due to the shortage of foreign exchange in the island nation.

His proposals to privatise some of the state business ventures have caused heartburn among parliamentarians alleging that Wickremesinghe had even targeted Sri Lanka Telecom which is making profits.

Some have vowed to oppose the privatisation move by voting against the budget. PTI

Anwar says 'no decision yet' on PM impasse

Malaysian politician Anwar Ibrahim said there was "no decision yet" on the country's next PM despite him and a rival being summoned to the king's palace to break a post-election impasse. No clear winner emerged from Saturday's election, leaving the nation in extended political limbo. The king of Malaysia, Sultan Abdullah Ahmad Shah, had summoned Anwar and his rival Muhyiddin Yassin in a bid to break the deadlock, but the two left without any answers. "There is no decision yet," Anwar told reporters after meeting the king, adding that "no timeline" was set. Muhyiddin, who is backed by an Islamist party, later told reporters that since no bloc had enough numbers, the king asked him and Anwar to form a "unity government". He said he told the king his bloc could not work with Anwar's group.

Criminal proceedings started against Imran Khan in Toshakhana case

ISLAMABAD

CRIMINAL proceedings were initiated against Imran Khan at a court here on Tuesday in a case filed against the deposed Pakistan prime minister for concealing information about the expensive Toshakhana gifts.

The Toshakhana is a department under the administrative control of the cabinet division and stores gifts given to rulers, parliamentarians, bureaucrats, and officials by heads of other governments and states and foreign dignitaries.

The proceedings against Khan were initiated on the Election Commission of Pakistan's complaint after it found him guilty of 'false statements and incorrect declaration' in his election papers.

The complainant said Khan had deliberately concealed his assets relating to Toshakhna gifts retained by him particularly in year 2018 and 2019 in the statements of assets and liabilities filed for the year 2017-2018 and 2018-19.

Additional Sessions Judge Zafar Iqbal adjourned till December 8 the hearing of the case against Khan, who on Tuesday failed to appear before the court, after recording the district election commissioner Waqas Malik's statement, according to Pakistani media reports.

The Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaaf (PTI) party Chairman was summoned to appear before the court during the previous hearing. Khan was summoned in the previous hearing that marked the beginning of a criminal trial against the ousted prime minister for concealing information about the expensive Toshakhana gifts. Adani plans new IPO to fund growth

Company said it will hold board meeting on November 25 to consider fundraise

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

ADANI GROUP flagship Adani Enterprises is planning to launch a new public offering or preferential allotment issue, including a QIP, as it looks to raise new funds to fuel its ambitious growth plans.

The company on Tuesday in a regulatory filing said a board meeting would be held on November 25, in Ahmedabad, to consider and approve the proposal of raising of funds. According to reports, the potential share issue could be worth at least $1.8 billion and could hit the market in 2023. "Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the board of directors of Adani Enterprises Limited will be held on Friday, 25th November 2022 at Ahmedabad, inter alia, to consider and approve the proposal of raising of funds by way of further public offering, preferential allotment (including a qualified institutions placement or through any other permissible mode) and/or combination thereof as may be considered appropriate, by way of issue of equity shares or any other eligible securities, subject to all such regulatory / statutory approvals as may be required including the approval of shareholders of the Company," the filing noted.

At present, Adani has seven listed companies under its belt and when included its recent acquisition - ACC and Ambuja Cement- the number stretches to 9. There were speculations that the conglomerate is planning to list its airport business as in short span of time it has become one of country's largest airport operators. Amidst growing unease over Adani Group's burgeoning debt – the Gautam Adani-led Group has seen its debt levels increase over the past five years from Rs 1 lakh to Rs 2.2 lakh crore as of March 2022 -- the company has been planning to raise funds through the equity route instead of debt. It has been reported that the group is planning to raise up to $10 billion to fund its expansion in the future.

Energy, digital revolutions to govern growth, says Ambani

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

RELIANCE INDUSTRIES LIMITED (RIL) Chairman Mukesh Ambani on Tuesday said three revolutions – clean energy revolution, bio-energy revolution and digital revolution -- will govern India's growth in the decades ahead.

While speaking at the 10th convocation of Pandit Deendayal Energy University, Ambani said together they will transform lives in ways unimagined. "While the clean energy revolution and the bio-energy revolution will produce energy sustainably, the digital revolution will enable us to consume energy efficiently. All three revolutions will together help India and the world save our beautiful planet from the Climate Crisis," said Ambani.

He further said if India has to become a renewable energy powerhouse, it is possible through the combined will and initiatives of leading business groups working with the ethos of a national coalition. While addressing the student, he said as the Amrit Kaal unfolds, India will witness an unprecedented explosion in economic growth and opportunities.

PAYTM SHARE CRASHES ON FEAR OF COMPETITION

ARSHAD KHAN @ Bengaluru

PAYTM shares crashed over 11% to close at a new low of ₹475.55 on Tuesday. During the day, the stock hit a fresh low of ₹474.30 on the NSE following a report by global brokerage firm Macquarie that said Paytm is likely to face headwinds from entry of Mukesh Amabni's Jio Financial Services (JFS).

Macquire, which had correctly predicted Paytm's initial share fall when the latter had launched its IPO in November 2021, said even though it is too early to tell the exact customer segments and target markets that JFC has plans to cater to, it seems clear that it would focus on consumer and merchant lending, the mainstay of NBFCs like Bajaj Finance and fintechs like Paytm.

As per the report, JFS, which is set for demerger from parent firm RIL and a separate listing on the exchanges, could become India's fifth-largest financial services firm in terms of networth. It pegged HDFC Bank, SBI, ICICI Bank, and Axis Bank to be the four top firms in the business. Paytm share prices have fallen 79% from its IPO price of ₹2,150. Its market cap now stands below ₹31,000 crore as against ₹1.39 lakh crore at the time of IPO launch. The stock was already under selling pressure following expiry of the one-year mandatory lock-in period for pre-IPO investors. In the past 5 sessions, Paytm shares have dipped about 22% during which one of its largest shareholders, SoftBank, reduced its stake by 4.5% and mopped up over ₹1,600 crore from stake sale. Macquarie said RIL has a network of over 15,000 stores across several formats and a vast customer base (40 crore in telecom and 20 crore in retail). This will provide a great leverage to JFC and, in concept, become a formidable threat for incumbents. Macquarie expects JFS to have edge over other NBFCs due to its deep-pocketed parentage, AAA credit rating, strong and well-capitalised balance sheet, large distribution footprint and strong ability to attract top-notch talent.

Capital market players seek higher STT on optn trading

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ Bengaluru

THE representatives of the financial sector and capital markets have urged finance ministry to increase the security transaction tax (STT) on option contracts in their pre-budget meeting.

The stakeholders have expressed their concern over speculation in the option trading for which the prevention is needed. 'There should be a separate STT for the cash and derivative. The commodity option should be used for MSP. Alternative Investment Fund(AIF)-3 category should also get pass through status," one of the stakeholders who was present in the meeting said. In addition, the ministry has also been requested to lift the ban on derivatives trading on several commodities including chana, wheat, paddy, soyabean etc. Experts present in the pre-budget included SS Mundra, Chairman, BSE; Siddharth Pai, co-chair, regulatory affairs committee Indian private equity and venture capital association. NS Kannan, managing director and CEO, ICICI Prudential Life Insurance Company, among others.

This apart, representatives from agriculture and agro processing industries also met finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Tuesday. They have made a request to keep farm inputs like fertilizers and pesticides etc out of GST ambit, as farmers can't claim input tax credit on them. Further, the agriculture industry representatives have urged to allocate separate funds for the promotion of organic farming in the pre-budget meet.

IT services, pharma to gain from India-Aus FTA: Goyal

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

INDIA'S IT sector will be the biggest gainer from the free trade agreement (FTA) between India and Australia as IT services form a major part of the economy, commerce minister Piyush Goyal said on Tuesday after Parliament Down Under approved the FTA.

Besides this, pharmaceutical sector will also benefit from the pact as medicines will get fast approval under the agreement, noted Goyal. "This is the first time in Australia's history where they are giving 100% tariff lines with most lines on entry into force and 113 lines within a period of five years," Goyal added. While this India-Australia Economic Cooperation and Trade Agreement (AI-ECTA) has already got Cabinet approval in India, it needed ratification by Australian parliament before its implementation. Goyal while briefing media here said the Australian government will now take approval from their executive council. He said these FTAs are quickly doable. Both the countries had signed this FTA in April this year.

The FTA, once operational, will provide duty-free access to the Australian market for over 6,000 broad sectors of India including textiles, leather, furniture, jewellery and machinery. Goyal said high-income workers were eagerly waiting for the pact to be able to sell to high-income earners in Australia. Under this agreement, Australia is offering zero-duty access to India for nearly 96.4% of exports (by value) from day one. It covers many products that currently fall into the category of 4-5% customs duty in Australia. As per the commerce ministry data, India's goods exports to Australia stood at $8.3 billion and imports were recorded at $16.75 billion in FY22. Goyal said this pact will boost bilateral trade from current $27.5 billion to $45-50 billion in next five years. One of the major highlights of the FTA is the offer of Visas to Indian chefs and yoga teachers. Meanwhile, every child who visits Australia for further studies will also be given an opportunity to work there under this pact depending on the student's educational level.

LIKELY TO HOLD RATES AS INFLATION SLOWS SLIGHTLY

Sri Lanka's central bank is expected to keep rates steady as inflation shows signs of easing and as authorities focus on discussions to secure a $2.9 billion IMF bailout to stabilise its crisis-hit economy. Thirteen out of 15 economists and analysts polled by Reuters forecast rates to remain unchanged at Thursday's policy announcement, as the Central Bank of Sri Lanka (CBSL) waits for the effects of its earlier hikes to filter through to prices and the broader economy. The CBSL held both the standing deposit facility rate and standing lending facility rate stand at 14.50% and 15.50%, respectively, in its last policy announcement on October, 6. The CBSL has raised rates by a record 950 basis points this year to battle runaway inflation which has piled pressure on an economy grappling with its worst crisis since independence from Britain in 1948. After hitting an annual peak of 68.9% in September with food inflation climbing to 93.7%, consumer inflation moderated slightly to 66% in October.

JAPAN

BOJ'S PRICE GAUGE HITS RECORD HIGH IN OCOBER

Japan's weighted median inflation rate, which is closely watched as an indicator on whether price rises are broadening, hit a record 1.1% in October in a sign of heightening inflationary pressure from rising raw material and labour costs. The data will likely keep alive market expectations the Bank of Japan (BOJ) may tweak its ultra-low interest rates if wages pick up in tandem with inflation next year. The weighted median is the inflation rate of items in the middle of price changes, or around 50th percentile point of the distribution, and is scrutinised by the BOJ for clues on how broadly prices are rising. The 1.1% year-on-year rise in weighted median inflation was the fastest pace on record and followed a 0.5% rise in September, BOJ data showed on Tuesday. Japan's weighted median inflation rate hovered around zero for the past two decades, as firms held off on price hikes for fear of scaring away cost-sensitive consumers. It began creeping up this year reflecting a wave of price hikes, mainly for food and daily necessities, as firms began passing on surging cost of raw material imports blamed on the war in Ukraine and the yen's sharp declines.

SOUTH KOREA

WARNS OF SUPPLY DISRUPTIONS IF TRUCKERS STRIKE

South Korea's prime minister urged unionised truckers on Tuesday to scrap plans to go on strike this week, what he called paralysis and irreversible damage, fuelling fears for post-pandemic recovery of global supply chains. For the second time in less than six months, the trucking union has threatened to begin a nationwide strike on Thursday that could disrupt manufacturing and fuel supplies. In June, an eight-day strike delayed cargo shipments of products ranging from autos to semiconductors in Asia's fourth-largest economy, costing over $1.2 billion in lost output and unmet deliveries. The Cargo Truckers Solidarity Union wants the government to extend beyond December, a policy that guarantees a minimum wage. During talks, the government offered a three-year extension of the scheme, but refused to accept the union's request to extend these benefits to truckers in better-paying industries like fuel and steel.

THE Cellular Operator Association of India (COAI) has proposed a revenue sharing model with the OTT (over-the-top) players, and it is likely to recoomend the same to the government in future.

It has said OTT players must compensate the telcos for data traffic they are driving onto the networks. "Proposing a financial model for OTT communications services to compensate telecom service providers, through a possible revenue share model, will be made to the government going forward as and when the specifics of the framework for light-touch regulation is discussed," said COAI, Director General, SP Kochhar Kochhar. COAI, represents all three private telecom players -- Reliance Jio, Bharti Airtel and Vodafone Idea – on Tuesday reiterated its demand to bring communication OTT (Over-the-top) players under the ambit of licensing and light-touch regulation.

The association has given its suggestions on how OTT communications services should be defined, to ensure there is no ambiguity. In a press note COAI said the OTTs providing telecommunication services similar to telcos such as voice or video calling and messaging within the meaning of Telecom Bill (to be later converted into the Act) to be defined clearly and the same regulatory and security obligations be met by them as done by the TSPs for providing similar services.

Qatar FIFA WORLD CUP FINALS 2022

Germany: Neuer (1); Kehrer (5), Sule (15), Rudiger (2), Raum (3); Kimmich (6), Goretzka (8); Gnabry (10), Musiala (14), Mueller (13); Havertz (7). Japan: Schmidt (23); Sakai (19), Yoshida (22), Tomiyasu (16), Nagatomo (5); Endo (6), Morita (13); Ito (14), Kamada (15), Kubo (11); Minamino (10).

MATCH POINT

Under a new regime and featuring one of the best young players in the world, Germany seek to exorcise the demons of 2018. Japan, though, will be a sturdy opposition. A look...

TIME FOR MUSIALA

Young German playmakers have a special bond with World Cups (think Mesut Ozil or Michael Ballack). Bayern playmaker Jamal Musiala could join this special bunch. He's a thrilling footballer to watch, all front-foot, quick-feet with an eye for goal.

PRESS AND PACE TO BURN

Where Germany let themselves down in 2018 was a lack of pace. They won't have that problem this time thanks to the likes of Leroy Sane and Serge Gnabry. Their defenders will press high but their midfielders will complement them.

GLIMPSE OF KUBO

A La Masia product, the explosive winger has had a very solid season for Real Sociedad in La Liga. He's very quick, likes a dribble and could cause Germany's high-line multiple problems. One to keep an eye on Japan's left side.

TECHNICALLY PROFICIENT

Japan are one of the most watchable of the Asian sides as they have a number of proficient players on the ball. None more so than Frankfurt's Daichi Kamada, a No 10 who has a supreme understanding of playing between the lines.

Saudi Arabia declares public holiday

RIYADH: Saudi Arabia's Crown Prince Mohammed Bin Salman has declared Wednesday a holiday for the private and government sectors after the national team stunned Argentina in their World Cup match on Tuesday. It applies to all employees in both public and private sectors, as well as all students across the country. Saleh Al-Shehri and Salem Al-Dawsari scored as Saudi Arabia won 2-1 at the Lusail Stadium in Doha in one of the greatest World Cup upsets in history.

DREAM WORKS

Saudi Arabia register a famous win against Argentina

SIDDHANTH ANEY @ Doha

CRAZY things can happen in sport. A resolute, brave and technically sound Saudi Arabia put Asia on the board at the 2022 FIFA men's World Cup in Qatar on Tuesday. In the process, they scripted one of the biggest upsets in the history of the sport. The thousands of Saudi fans who made the trip across the border would be lying if they said a final scoreline of 2-1 against Argentina was a result they expected anywhere other than in their wildest fantasies. Yet, that's how it ended at a roaring Lusail Stadium that was draped in a sea of green.

Express GOAL
SIDDHANTH ANEY @ DOHA

It was reminiscent of Argentina's 0-1 loss to Cameroon in Italy 1990, where they were defending champions. A remarkably composed Herve Renard, Saudi coach, summed it up in the post-match press conference. "Argentina are a fantastic team with great players," he said. "They were unbeaten in 36 games and the champions of South America. But this is football. Sometimes crazy things happen."

It could have gone very differently. With the clock barely at the double digit mark, Lionel Messi, in his last World Cup, stepped up to the penalty spot and calmly stroked the ball home. From then on, it was hard work for the Saudis. Argentina dominated possession and had all the chances. In the next 20 minutes, they found the back of the net thrice, first it was Messi who latched on to a lofted through ball and finished with characteristic composure. Then the in-form Lautaro Martinez did the same, twice. Each time FIFA's new semi-automated offside technology came to Saudi's rescue. Playing a high line and, despite all the attempts by Argentina, Saudi's offside trap held. Seven times in the first half, the linesman held his flag up. Still, going into the break a goal up and under little or no pressure, it seemed only a matter of time before Lionel Scaloni's side cemented the lead.

The Green Falcons, cheered on by fans, produced a stunning 10-minute spell to flip the game on its head. Playing on the counter, Saleh Al-Shehri converted superbly off a low-percentage chance off his left foot, levelling things up three minutes after half-time. Then Salem Al-Dawsari produced a magical solo goal.

The two-time champions had opportunities to level but Saudi resisted to script a famous win.

The first half against Argentina did not go the Saudi way and coach Herve Renard was not pleased. The team took the break one goal behind on of the most consistent teams in the world.

"Tactically we were not good in the first half," he said. "Our block was compact but the pressure on the likes of (Leandro) Paredes was not enough. I think after the penalty, if we had conceded a second goal that would have been the end. When you come to the World Cup you need to give everything. We cannot play like we did in the first half..."

Salem Al-Dawsari was magical as his right foot strike found the net. In the Argentine box, pressured by three defenders, al-Dawsari won the ball, made space for the shot and unleashed an effort that left Emiliano Martinez with no chance and himself with a memory he will never forget; nor his compatriots. Saudi had two shots on target and they made both count. Comparatively, captain Leo Messi et al were profligate; creating 14 chances and squandering all but the penalty. "It was about inches, this offside situation," Scaloni said in his post-game press conference. "... but we knew that with the new semi-automated system this could happen. We knew how they (Saudi) would play and it worked well. Congratulations to the other team for the win."

Congratulations also to Mohammed Al-Owais, adjudged player of the game and a defensive line that grew in confidence as the game went on. To win the game is one thing, but to hold Argentina from scoring off open play makes it even more special.

"We prepared very well for the tournament and hopefully will have better results in the future," Al-Owais said. "We started preparing a month and a half ago and were able to play very well. Honestly, I felt that we were especially good in the last 10 minutes," he concluded before leaving the floor to his manager and heading back to his comrades in the dressing room.

High-line, energy and pressing

High-line, energy and pressing. Those were the three tenets behind Saudi Arabia's 2-1 win over Argentina in a Group C encounter on Tuesday. A look at how the match unfolded...

KSA SET THEIR STALL OUT

Even if Argentina began the match on the front foot — Lionel Messi had a very presentable chance to open the scoring in the 2nd minute — what caught the eye was Saudi's very high starting line. What that meant was it allowed their attackers and midfielders to take a higher starting point. The energy they showed, both while pressing, and in the tackle, had the desired effect. It made Argentina edgy.

OPENING BLOOD TO MESSI & CO.

The two-time world champions got a soft penalty and Messi despatched it with minimum of fuss. But the goal itself didn't settle Argentina down. If anything, Saudi Arabia doubled down on their pressing and they maintained that high-line. It affected Albiceleste's rhythm and they were thrown off their game.

THE OFF-SIDE GOALS

In under 15 first-half minutes, Argentina scored three goals that were deemed to be offside. Saudi Arabia played a highline and the offside goals were a direct product of their starting position. It's a strategy that's fraught with danger but when it comes off, it can have this effect on the forwards.

MISSING LO CELSO IN MIDFIELD

Saudi's physicality was causing all sorts of problems to Argentina who were without the calming influence of Giovani Lo Celso in midfield. He has assumed greater significance during Argentina's long unbeaten run. If he had been there, he could have unlocked Saudi's high-line.

A BREAK-AWAY GOAL

Even if you have kept the ball for long periods, a 1-0 lead is a bit like walking on ice. And so Saudi showed when Firas al-Buraikin spotted Saleh al-Shehri. He ran past the ineffective Cristian Romero before opting to go across Emi Martinez. It was Saudi's first shot on goal and it sent the stadium — many of whom were wearing Saudi's green jerseys — into raptures.

TWO GOALS WITHIN 5 MINUTES

If the first goal came from nowhere, the second goal came in a period when Saudi were dominating. After going behind, Argentina were rattled. Instead of putting men behind the ball, sensing blood, Saudi went forward. Ten seconds before scoring the winner, Nawaf al-Abid hit a rasping left-foot drive only for it be headed clear. The loose ball was accepted by Salem al-Dawsari who sidefooted past one, danced past another before evading a third Argentine leg before curling an effort from the edge of the area. He was off celebrating even before it hit the net. It was a goal the other No 10 on the pitch, Messi, had been scoring for 16- or so years.

Tunisia defy odds, hold Denmark to 0-0 draw

AP @ Doha

ARAB teams are making an impact at the first World Cup in the Middle East. Tunisia held European Championship semi-finalist Denmark to a 0-0 draw Tuesday, three hours after Saudi Arabia beat Argentina in a shocking upset.

Before a stadium filled almost entirely with Tunisia's red-clad supporters, midfielder Aïssa Laïdouni set the tone in the very first minute when he stripped emblematic Denmark playmaker Christian Eriksen of the ball with an aggressive sliding tackle — then stood up and pumped his arms menacingly, gesturing to the crowd to get even more fired up.

"I'm always proud to represent Tunisia and we always go on the pitch 100% committed," Laïdouni said through a translator. Tunisia likely deserved more but an expert save shortly before halftime by goalkeeper Kasper Schmeichel helped Denmark preserve the draw.

Having already gone down to the grass after Tunisia broke through the defense, Schmeichel stuck his hand up to deflect a shot from Issam Jebali, who plays his club ball in Denmark for Odense. It was just the sort of save that the keeper's father, former Manchester United great Peter Schmeichel, used to pull off. "We wanted to win a point at least," Laïdouni said. "We didn't come to get a draw. We wanted to get the win, and I think we did have chances for that," he said.

Bale to the rescue

DOHA: Gareth Bale scored a late penalty to snatch a 1-1 draw with the United States in Wales' first World Cup game in 64 years on Monday. Welsh skipper Bale lashed home an 82nd-minute spot kick to break American hearts moments after earning the penalty when defender Walker Zimmerman crashed into the former Real Madrid star. The penalty drama cancelled out Tim Weah's superb first-half goal for the Americans which had threatened to ruin the celebratory mood surrounding Wales' long-awaited first World Cup appearance since the 1958 finals in Sweden.

Croatia, Spain ready to roll

Three of the bigger European nations, including 2018 finalists Croatia, seek good starts in their respective openers on Wednesday. A look...

ONE LAST CROATIAN DANCE

Last time finalists Croatia are seemingly at the end of the cycle so it will be intriguing to see if they have one final dance left in them. Their midfield, led by the evergreen Luka Modric is back. The one big struggle is where will the goals come from?

PEDRI, FATI LEAD NEW GEN

The next generation is here & they are modern interpretation of Spain's 2010 version. They play with a highline, the midfielders are more direct. They have the potential to go a long way but will have to find a way to score as Alvaro Morata isn't the most reliable.

PROGRESS ON THEIR MINDS

Morocco have a fresh cycle to look forward too and may not be the rank outsiders to advance from the group. A number of proven performers is led by Hakim Ziyech and Achraf Hakimi. They can surprise a few teams at the World Cup.

NAVAS STILL THE NUMERO UNO

The country may have undergone a revolution as they tried more than 70 players over the last four years. But the main man continues to be their custodian. A lot still depends on how he performs under the sticks if they are to escape a very tough group for them.

GOLDEN TEAM'S LAST HURRAH

In 2018, they came close but finished third. With the likes of Kevin de Bruyne, Romelu Lukaku and Eden Hazard in their peak or just past their prime, this feels like their final chance to grab gold.

SONG FOR THE IMMIGRANTS

In 1986, Canada finished dead last. In 2022, they aspire to at least qualify to the knock-outs. And they can, thanks to a very young team (think Alphonso Davies and Jonathan David), some of whom were born elsewhere before resettling in their adopted homeland.

CUP-SETS

In one of the biggest upsets in the history of World Cup, Argentina lost their opening fixture against Saudi Arabia 1-2. Here's a look at previous such reversals that are still etched in our minds...

Cameroon's Omam-Biyick scores vs Argentina on June 8, 1990 | AFP

ARGENTINA 0 CAMEROON 1

Cameroon was the story of the 1990 World Cup as they became the first African team to reach the quarterfinals of the tournament. The run began with a memorable 1-0 win over defending champions Argentina, captained by Diego Maradona. Cameroon were down to nine men by end, but held on for the win.

1950 US 1 ENGLAND 0

England arrived in Brazil for their first-ever World Cup appearance with much hype around them. Legend has it that their 0-1 loss to the USA was so unbelievable that many newspapers in England attributed it to a typing mistake.

1966 NORTH KOREA 1 ITALY 0

The build-up to the 1966 World Cup was marred by controversy over FIFA allocating just one spot to Asia and Africa together. It was perhaps fitting that the biggest upset of the tournament was caused by the team that took that spot — North Korea. The loss led to a group stage exit for Italy.

Costa Rica beat Italy on June 20, 2014 | AFP

ITALY 0 COSTA RICA 1

The 2014 World Cup is Italy's ongoing torrid World Cup run began. Their opening game of the tournament saw a 0-1 loss to unfancied Costa Rica, who went on to pip the three-time champions and qualify for the knockout stages. After their group stage exit in 2014, Italy did not qualify for the 2018 and 2022 World Cups.

1998 BRAZIL 1 NORWAY 2

Brazil were the reigning champions and heavily favoured to retain their title in France. However, they were handed a reality check in their group game as they were beaten 1-2 by Norway. Brazil were leading going into the last ten minutes but two late goals by the Norwegians clinched the game.

2002 FRANCE 0 SENEGAL 1

France were looking near-invincible coming into the 2002 World Cup, reigning both as World and European Champions. They were handed the rudest of shocks in the opening game. Bouba Diop handed Senegal an improbable victory in their first-ever World Cup game.

QUICK PASSES

Wales raise questions to FIFA

The Wales football federation says it has asked FIFA for clarity on reports some Wales fans were stopped from taking rainbow-coloured hats into a World Cup stadium. Rainbow imagery, a symbol of LGBTQ rights, is controversial in a country where same-sex relations are criminalized. Fans and some staff members were "asked to remove and discard their Rainbow Wall bucket hats before entry to the Ahmad Bin Ali Stadium," the Wales federation said in a statement Tuesday.

Scores of fans report ticket woes

Hundreds of football fans in Qatar struggled to retrieve their digital World Cup tickets on Tuesday, as problems with FIFA's mobile application stoked confusion and frustration at the tournament for a second day in a row. A line of distressed fans snaked outside the main ticketing help desk in Doha, with many reporting that their tickets had abruptly disappeared from their phones and could not be retrieved— a glitch that caused hundreds to miss the start of England's match against Iran.

SUSTAINED ARGENTINE PRESSURE BUT NO END PRODUCT

10 of Argentina's 15 shots came after going behind but for all that pressure, they couldn't find a way past man of the match, custodian Mohammed Al Owais. They threw everything at him, including crosses into the box but he was equal to everything, including a point blank save off Nicolas Tagliafico from inside the six-yard box.

ARGENTINA DOMINATE xG, SAUDI ARABIA WIN THE MATCH

On another day, Argentina would have put away some of the better chances they had. On the xG scale — expected goals a side will normally score depending on the kind of chances they have had — Argentina was 2.26. Saudi Arabia's was 0.15 but that counted for little in the end as they engineered a breathtaking upset.

Ronaldo to leave Utd 'with immediate effect'

Cristiano Ronaldo will leave Manchester United "with immediate effect," the Premier League club said Tuesday. The 37-year-old conducted an explosive interview on the eve of the World Cup, criticizing manager Erik ten Hag and the club's owners. "Cristiano Ronaldo is to leave Manchester United by mutual agreement, with immediate effect," the club said.

Young Spain aim for positive start

Third-youngest squad in the WC, the 2010 Champions will look to avoid a repeat of 2018

AP @ Doha

A NEW era is about to start for Spain at the World Cup, with a generation of talented young players taking center stage in its quest to win a second world title. Spain's revamped squad, led by back-to-back Golden Boy award winners Pedri and Gavi, will begin being put to the test on Wednesday against an experienced Costa Rica team that is bringing back some of the players who helped it make a surprising run to the quarterfinals eight years ago.

The Costa Ricans hope to repeat the success of the World Cup in Brazil and avoid the debacle of four years ago in Russia, when they didn't win any matches and were eliminated in the group stage. Spain also wants to avoid a repeat of its campaign in the 2018 tournament, when it was ousted by the host country in the round of 16 after going through an embarrassing coaching change just days before its debut.

Many of the veterans from that tournament are gone, including Sergio Ramos, Gerard Piqué, Andrés Iniesta and David Silva. Instead, coach Luis Enrique is betting on the likes of 19-year-old Pedri, 20-year-old Ansu Fati and Nico Williams, and 18-year-old Gavi, Spain's youngest ever goal scorer.

"I think it's very positive because young players bring to the team energy," Luis Enrique said Tuesday. "We try to manage that with the experience that we have as a staff and trying to get the best from every player."

Spain enters the tournament in Qatar with the third-youngest squad among the 32 nations, with an average age of 25.3, after the United States and Ghana. More than half of the squad is 25 years old or younger, with six players at 20 or younger and playing in their first World Cup.

Pedri, Gavi and Ansu Fati are likely to start against Costa Rica. The other youngsters picked by Luis Enrique — who has joined in the youth movement by becoming a streamer during the World Cup — include Ferran Torres, Yéremy Pino, Eric García, Hugo Guillamón and Alejandro Balde.

"I think they are players who are important at their clubs, who already play in important European competitions," said Busquets, one of the most veteran players in the squad along with Jordi Alba and César Azpilicueta. Busquets is the oldest at 34 and the only returning player from the Spain team that won the 2010 World Cup in South Africa. Luis Enrique said he should have all of his players available to play on Thursday, including veteran defender Dani Carvajal, who this week missed practice time because of the flu.

Costa Rica, playing in its third straight World Cup, is bringing back a few players from its historic campaign in 2014, when it was eliminated by the Netherlands in a penalty shootout in the last eight.

Series in pocket, questions remain

GOMESH S @ Chennai

IT is close to impossible to have any decisive takeaways on a player or a team from a three-match bilateral T20I series which saw just 405 legitimate deliveries bowled across four innings. Add to the fact that the series is happening a week after one of the most competitive T20 World Cups ever. However, all said and done, India were declared winners (1-0) in the end.

Just like that, another inconsequential T20I bilateral series win. What to make of the results or the performance or the team selections? Barring the fact that they have a captaincy candidate on standby for the shortest format, very little.

With the senior players and the coaching staff being rested, it was a chance for the Indian team to try something new, especially under Hardik Pandya. But despite the change in players, a lot seemed like a constant. Some of the selection choices, too, were debatable. For starters, both Sanju Samson and Umran Malik did not get a game. And when they had to go for a seamer in place of one of the off-spinners, they left out Washington Sundar for Deepak Hooda.

India captain Hardik Pandya with the T20I trophy in Napier on Tuesday | AP

Brief scores: New Zealand: 160 all out in 19.4 ovs (Conway 59, Phillips 54; Siraj 4/17, Arshdeep 4/37) tie with India 75/4 in 9 ovs (Hardik 30 n.o; Southee 2/27).

It's not like there were not any good performances. Yuzvendra Chahal had a couple of good outings. Mohammed Siraj took a four-fer, Harshal Patel bowled well on Tuesday and Arshdeep continued to rise through the ranks. But it is difficult to read too much into the positives as well.

This brings Indian cricket back to square one. The only takeaway is in fact that Hardik is ready for more responsibility. And it is reflected in his comments as well. When asked regarding selections, he said, "If players are feeling bad, they can come and speak to me or the coach. Going forward, if I remain the captain, I don't think that will be an issue." FROM 130/2 TO 160 ALL OUT

NAPIER: New Zealand lost eight wickets for just 30 runs in the last five overs of their innings in the third T20I. A look at the collapse...

New Zealand were going strong at 130/2 in the 16th over with half-centurions Devon Conway and Glenn Phillips at the crease. Mohammed Siraj claimed Phillips' wicket to begin the slide for the hosts. Arshdeep Singh then removed Conway in the next over. From 146/4, the Kiwis lost five wicket for three runs before Tim Southee (6) and Lockie Ferguson (5 n.o) took them to 160.

ADDED TIME AND MORE PRESSURE

The referee assistant shows 8 minutes overtime during the World Cup | AP

GRAHAM DUNBAR @ Doha

THE 90-minute football match is turning into 100-plus at the World Cup — and that is what FIFA wants to give fans more entertainment.

The nearly 14 minutes added at the end of Argentina's shocking 2-1 loss to Saudi Arabia on Tuesday meant the five longest periods of stoppage time for a single half of football at any World Cup were all played in Qatar since Monday, according to statistics site Opta Joe. England and Iran went into the 15th minute of stoppage time in the first half on Monday and the referee added almost 14 minutes in the second half. A head injury for Iran's goalkeeper explained the first, but the second raised more eyebrows.

Even more surprising were the Netherlands-Senegal and the United States-Wales games each entering the 11th minute of added time.

The pattern carried on Tuesday as the Argentina-Saudi Arabia match went into a seventh minute of time added on in the first half and twice as much in the second"The purpose is to offer more show to those watching the World Cup," FIFA referees committee chairman Pierluigi Collina said in Qatar ahead of the tournament. Collina insisted the directive to referees "is something not new." FIFA officials have long been agitated about the dwindling amount of effective playing time in the regulation 90 minutes.

In 2017, a 60-minute, stop-start game clock like in basketball was suggested by Marco van Basten when the Netherlands great was then FIFA technical director.

Five years ago, even Van Basten noted wryly it had become routine for referees to add one minute in the first half and three in the second regardless of what actually happened on the field.

At the 2014 World Cup in Brazil, the ball was typically in play for about 60 minutes. That was down to between 52 and 58 minutes at the 2018 tournament in Russia, according to one statistical analysis.

"What we want to avoid is to have a match lasting 42, 43, 44, 45 minutes of active play. This is not acceptable," said Collina, widely recognised as one of the best referees. Goal celebrations that now go on and on have also tested FIFA's patience.

"Celebrations may last one, one and a half minutes," Collina added. "It's easy to lose three, four, five minutes only for goal celebrations and this has to be considered and compensated at the end." Five second-half goals in England's 6-2 win over Iran shows that, plus there was a VAR review to award Iran a penalty at the end of the 10 minutes of stoppage time that were indicated. AP

FASHIONABLY FORWARD

Celebrity stylist Ami Patel, who was in the city recently, speaks to CE about her idea of style, what Bengaluru means to her and shares some tips, tricks and fashion hacks

MONIKA MONALISA

IN a room filled with much buzz, celebrity designer Ami Patel walked in calm and composed. And the secret to that lies in her daily quiet time. "I meditate twice a day and that helps," says Patel, who calls the city her second home. Incidentally, her home is very close to the Art Of Living Center on Kanakapura Road, which she frequents often. "I have been coming to Bengaluru for years now. I come here on holidays and have a lot of friends here."

The celebrity designer, who is the stylist of Bollywood fashionistas Priyanka Chopra Jonas and Alia Bhatt, was in the city for a workshop on the trends of wedding dressings, organised by The House of Angadi. Patel says, "You can wear something extremely traditional and still look modern. Our Indian handloom is so rich and timeless and there is more than one way that you style them."

Patel was the brain behind the wedding trousseau of Bhatt and Chopra, which then became trends. "Priyanka wanted her outfit to be an all-red and the lehenga she wore was such a revolution. Sabya (Sabyasachi Mukherjee) made it that way too with hand-cut organza flowers, French knots in silk floss and layers of thread work. Even Alia's wedding saree had the same impact too. After her wedding everyone wanted to go in for whites," says Patel.

Not everyone has access to designer clothes or a stylist. To them, Patel, who has just returned from Paris and was dressed in a white shirt and blue denims, suggests following the trick of 'less is more'. "Try and have a statement piece," says Patel, who usually prefers to have a simpler personal style even though she has access to numerous choices. "Rather than following a fashion trend, find out what works for you," she concludes.

DRESS LIKE THE STARS:

Priyanka Chopra: She is experimental, edgy and does not hesitate to take risks. That's exactly how fashion should be. The idea of fashion is to try something new.

Madhuri Dixit: She has a very classic style. She can carry heirlooms and handlooms effortlessly. She carries off different styles effortlessly.

AMI'S WINTER ESSENTIALS

1. Layer it but keep the style personal by keeping what works for you
2. Begin with basic patterns and designs
3. Thumb rule of colours is to keep it to three shades
4. Keep accessories simple and minimal

City's Karthik Vijayamani speaks about his victory at the Gulf Achievers Award 2022 for his short films, making songs for the IPL and the nature of Dubai's content creation industry

TUNIR BISWAS

WHEN Bengaluru's Karthik Vijayamani went to Dubai in 2014 for a job in the science and technology industry, little did he know that films were his calling. But after producing multiple short film projects in the past eight years, Vijayamani has recently been recognised for his contribution after he won the Gulf Achievers Award 2022 as the best short film content creator in Dubai. He was recognised for his projects Dad Says, Dance Battle 2022 and Chords of Love.

Now, after amassing recognition in the UAE, Vijayamani feels things worked out for him after his company, Avighna Productions, redefined the concept of an advertisement. "Our production house has made multiple ads. While working on those projects, we thought of taking a different approach. We took more of a narrative route in a short-film format. We felt it would help us relay a message to the audience better," says Vijayamani about their work that also incorporated a few Bollywood celebrities to help the project reach a wider audience. These short-films were released in Dubai and Sharjah.

Outside of making short films, Vijayamani's production house has also created fan anthems for the Indian Premiere League (IPL) teams Chennai Super Kings, Royal Challengers Bangalore & Mumbai Indians. Of these three, the CSK one titled '#CSKReturns Anthem' especially made the rounds during IPL 2019 and has over 3.6 million views on YouTube. "Making music for the IPL is challenging because of the intense competition. There are thousands of people who make IPL songs. The game is not just about making the song but how we choose to market. A bad marketing strategy can ruin a good song's success. In our case, we created a film that said that whoever in the audience will dance to the first few beats of the song and put it up on social media, we will give them a gold coin if they gain a huge number of views. That strategy worked out for us," he shares.

Vijayamani feels the content creation industry in the UAE is different compared to India. "The biggest challenge is that the people of Dubai are not easily approachable. I first had to familiarise myself with all the top Sheikhs in Dubai and maintain a healthy relationship with them. Once I started to gain their confidence, things started to get easier. In 2018, they gave me one opportunity to make a song about people of determination, which is the official term for specially-abled citizens in Dubai. We made an album with people of determination that year. The success of that project opened many doors for me," he concludes.

The biggest challenge in Dubai is that the people are not easily approachable. I first had to familiarise myself with all the top Sheikhs. Once I gained their faith, things started to get easier.

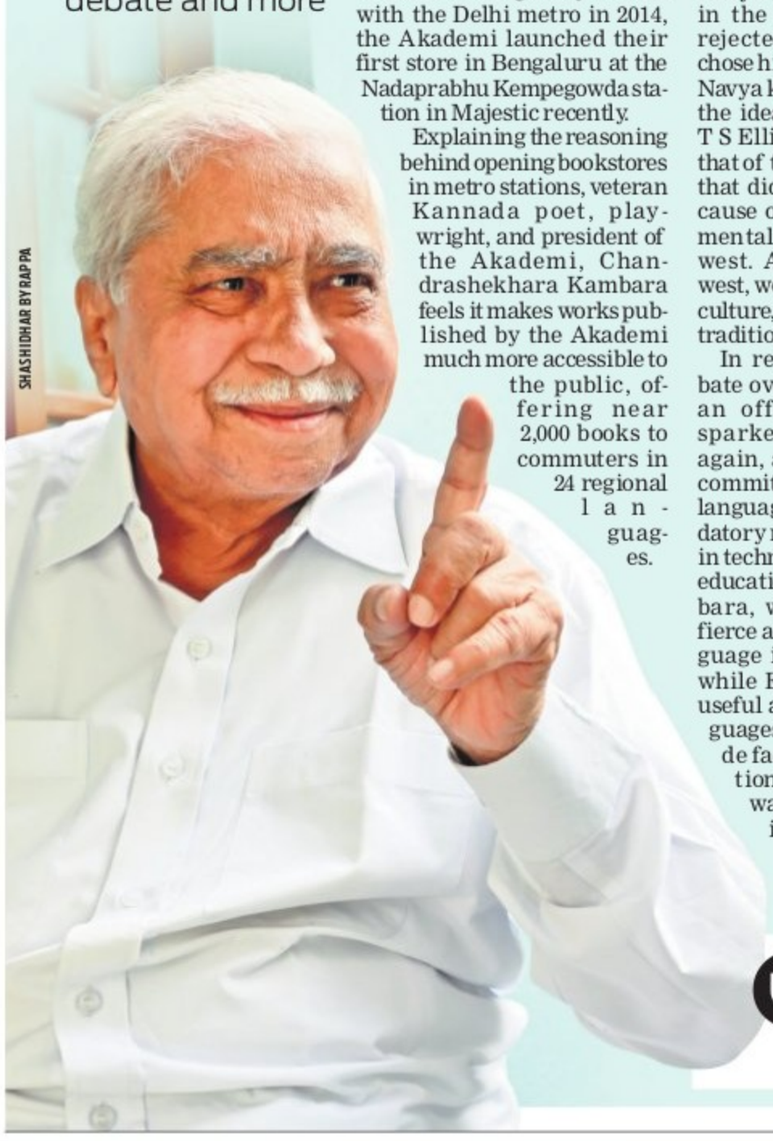
LANGUAGE, LAND & LINKS

Following the Sahitya Akademi's first bookstore launch at Nadaprabhu Kempegowda Metro Station recently, the Akademi president, veteran Kannada poet, playwright and Jnanpith awardee Chandrashekara Kambara weighs in on the language debate and more

DESE GOWDA



SHASHIDHAR BY RAP PA

IN recent years, Sahitya Akademi, the country's premier organisation dedicated to the promotion of regional language literature, has undertaken an initiative to increase readership – bookstores in metro stations. Originally started with the Delhi metro in 2014, the Akademi launched their first store in Bengaluru at the Nadaprabhu Kempegowda station in Majestic recently.

Explaining the reasoning behind opening bookstores in metro stations, veteran Kannada poet, playwright, and president of the Akademi, Chandrashekhara Kambara feels it makes works published by the Akademi much more accessible to the public, offering near 2,000 books to commuters in 24 regional languages.

Prior to becoming the president of Sahitya Akademi, Kambara was known as a prolific playwright and poet who put northern Karnataka and its culture on the national map, pioneering a genre of plays and poems that tackled contemporary issues interwoven with mythology and folklore. Despite coming to fore during the Navya (modernist) movement in the early '60s, Kambara rejected the movement and chose his own path. "Writers of Navya kavya sought to espouse the ideals of writers such as T S Elliot, D H Lawrence, and that of the west in general. But that didn't sit well for me because our ideals were fundamentally different from the west. And by espousing the west, we have ignored our own culture, rich with centuries of traditions," he shares.

In recent months, the debate over the use of Hindi as an official language has sparked controversy once again, after a parliamentary committee recommended the language be made as the mandatory medium of instruction in technical and non-technical educational institutions. Kambara, who is known for his fierce advocacy for native language instruction, feels that while English and Hindi are useful as communication languages, they shouldn't be the de facto medium for education. "Children should always learn every subject in their native language. It not only helps in sustaining regional languages but helps them grow," he says.

At the same time, Kambara feels that the need for a common communication language is even greater in these times, given the increasingly interconnected nature of society. "The need to use languages other than our own has always been there. When we needed to communicate with people from regions around us, we learnt those languages. But what has changed in recent years is the extent of our communication sphere. Most in Karnataka never had the need to interact with someone in Bengal before," he explains, adding that having to learn multiple languages to satisfy the need to communicate with people from various cultures would be impractical for most.

Instead, Kambara believes Hindi should be used as a common communication language. "Hindi has been in use across the country for years. While there are various arguments for and against its usage as an official language, I feel it's a worthwhile option as a communication language, and definitely better than English," he says.

Kambara has been living in a quaint neighbourhood in south Bengaluru for many years now. But unlike Shivapura – a fictious and idealised place based on his native village in Belagavi district – which is often the centre of narratives in many of his works, the city is absent from his works. When asked about this omission, the Jnanapith winner responds with a tongue in cheek remark: "Our childhood experiences tend to shape our adulthood. I've seen the world extensively, travelling to over 180 countries. But I am yet to see a place as beautiful as Shivapura. Even as I was mesmerised by the Chicago River when I visited the city, I couldn't help feeling that the river Ghataprabha back home was somehow better."

GROWING OLDER WITH GOA

URBAN BOURBON
Hriday Ranjan
Writer, comedian

I first came to Goa in the year 2010. It was my first ever flight, on Kingfisher Airlines – back when Mr. Mallya was a darling of the media and masses. I had seen Goa in the movies – where people named D'Souza and Rodriguez spoke to each other in anglicised dialogues such as 'Hey man, tum kya karta hai?' I had heard rumours that beer in Goa was cheaper than drinking water.

Back then, Goa saw more foreign visitors. Google Maps wasn't around, so I took along a thick copy of Lonely Planet. Little did I know that in a few years, the entire world will get deeply connected, turning into 'Lonely People'. I remember being amazed when I first stepped out. Streets of people in shorts and hats. Shacks where waiters clocked Gordon Ramsay-ian times to bring you an omelette. Where nothing was rushed, and life crawled at a slow pace. Where newly married wives with their red bangles giggled as they got their feet wet. And brand-new husbands carefully protected their spouses from the evil eye(s). Where bars were not hidden in corners, but appeared in all shapes and sizes everywhere. The men who appeared out of thin air and whispered 'Massage? Party??' in your ears. Where you could hold your partner's hand without fear, and maybe sneak in a kiss too!

As I proceeded to study Journalism, I developed newfound respect for the state. I found that Goa was more than just beaches and shacks – and had a robust economy. That Goa was one of the healthiest economies in India. With the highest GDP per capita in the country, high literacy levels, and a very high quality of life. I realised how safe the state was – for women, men, and everybody across the gender binary. Gradually, the state began to embed itself into my existence. There were years when I would visit 3-4 times a year. Over newfound love or heartache. For a break, or to jumpstart plans. But one thing remained with me throughout.

This column. As a standup comedian with no semblance of schedule in my life, this column has been the steady sense of routine and sanity. And since weekly newspaper columns don't have holidays, I have submitted editions of Urban Bourbon from various corners of Goa. On the beach, in markets, or while being cooped up deliriously in a hotel room. Or at a party when an idea struck, as I fervently typed out black and white thoughts on my phone, surrounded by neon lights.

Nowadays, I mostly visit the state for IFFI – the annual film festival. In many ways, Goa has aged with me. The pandemic is slowly vanishing like the last strains of light. The beaches are filled with mostly domestic tourists. Large swarms of people don't irritate me anymore. From whatever I remember of studying five years of Economics, I presume it is a sign that the economy is crawling back to normalcy. I don't stay in beach shacks anymore. I reside in Panjim - the seemingly older, administrative part of the state.

As I type out this column, the sun is about to set. I have a beer (Corona!) next to me, and am typing frantically into my tablet. It will be night soon, and people will step out in shorts and hats, holding hands and clicking pictures of everything around them. And as I go to bed, tired in body and mind, I shall be thankful that there is a place I can escape to – unjudged and undisturbed.

Nagabhushana to headline Tagaru Palya

Nagabhushana

The third production venture of Dhananjay's Daali Pictures will mark the directorial debut of Umesh K Krupa

CE FEATURES

ACTOR Dhananjay, in a recent interaction, shared that his production house, Daali Pictures, will be introducing fresh talents in their upcoming projects.

The actor and producer had also revealed that the next project from his banner is titled Tagaru Palya. Now CE has learned that the film will star Ikkat-fame Nagabhushana in the lead, and will mark the debut of director Umesh K Krupa. The film is expected to go on floors this December.

Umesh, who comes from a visual arts background, has specialised in sculpting and worked as an art director too before assisting filmmakers. "Having experienced the technicalities of working behind the camera, I always aimed to become a director. It is now finally getting realised with Tagaru Palya," says Umesh.

Tagaru Palya is the name of a famous dish available in parts of Karnataka. "My story happens around a function, and about people, who have a fetish for a certain kind of dishes. The underlying theme of the film is about life, traditions, and rooted culture," says Umesh.

Wanting to explore a raw and realistic subject, Umesh has done a location recce, and roped in a few actors including Rangayana Raghu, Tara, and Sharath Lohitashwa. "Tagaru Palya is made on a big canvas, and we are planning to bring on board 35 noted actors to play pivotal roles," As for Dhananjay playing a role in Tagaru Palya, Umesh says that nothing has been discussed about it with the actor yet, and they will have a clearer picture once the project goes on floors.

With music by Vasuki Vaibhav, Tagaru Palya will have cinematography by SK Rao.

Nagashekar to team up with producer Manjunath Gowda for a multilingual project

The film has a seven-member team from different backgrounds as part of the writing group

Manjunath Gowda

CE FEATURES

DIRECTOR Nagashekar (Aramane, Sanju Weds Geetha, Myna) is set to collaborate with Vikrant Rona producer Manjunath Gowda (Jack Manju) for a project. The film began with a script pooja, which was held on Friday.

Confirming this development, Jack Manju said that along with Nagashekar, noted personalities from different backgrounds are working on the script. He shared that the cast and crew will be finalised only after the script is locked. "I liked the line Nagashekar brought to me. So, we put together a group of eminent personalities, including director Sumana Kittur, BB Ashok Kumar (Retd Assistant Commissioner of Police), Chakravarthy Chandrachud (writer and journalist), Dilip (expert criminal lawyer), cinematographer Satya Hegde, and filmmaker Raghu Kovi, to work on the script," says Jack Manju.

Hoping to complete the script in a month, Nagashekar shares that the film will be a love story that is based on a national issue. "It is going to be a pan-India film made on a high-scale budget. I have a few actors in mind, and we plan to approach them with the bound script. Apart from bringing in prominent Indian actors, we are also planning to rope in a Hollywood actor for this project," signs off Nagashekar.

'THIMAYYA IS UNIQUE AND COMPLEX'

Anant Nag

...says senior actor Anant Nag, who adds that he enjoyed performing the role, which also has a negative shade

A SHARADHAA

LEGENDARY actor Anant Nag is set to star in Sanjay Sharma's debut directorial, Thimayya & Thimayya, and shared that the role was very challenging. "When director Sanjay Sharma told me about this film, I asked him to send the script, and I enjoyed reading it. I was even surprised that such a story was coming from an ad filmmaker, and liked the way he understood the creative process of cinema," says the actor.

Thimayya & Thimayya is about the bonding between a grandfather and grandson, and the actor plays an arrogant Coorgi person, who has a very unique and complex character arc. "There is a negative trait to the character (Thimayya), who is egoistic and selfish. In fact, I was debating whether to take up this role, but the shades that Sanjay had sketched this part attracted me. I'm curious to know how the audience will react to this particular character," says Anant Nag, who also appreciated the art director Vineeta for creating authentic structures that go well with Sanjay's story.

Anant Nag's Thimayya is not just wealthy in the film, but is also a good trumpet player. "He is good at playing the trumpet, but uses the same instrument to inflict violence too. He is a control freak, and wants his grandson to obey every order of his. The undercurrent theme of this film adds entertainment value to the script," says Anant Nag, who was also happy to have learned a new instrument for the role.

Anant Nag is one of those very few actors, who craves to do better with each film and still enjoys everything about acting. Throughout his prolific acting career, he has always had filmmakers of that era develop scripts with him in mind. This constant updating has made filmmakers always approach him with unique roles and interesting stories. Sharing his love for collaborating with fresh talents, Anant Nag says, "I'm glad to know that there are directors who still have me in their minds while writing characters. Having said that, I don't feel like accepting everything. I love to be part of projects where I can enjoy the character, and also be part of a team that sets a good atmosphere," he signs off.

Thimayya and Thimayya bankrolled by Rajesh Sharma also stars Diganth, Aindrita Ray, and Shubra Aiyappa in the lead cast.
